

ALLIES WILL FORCE FIGHTING AT ONCE

GREECE AND BULGARIANS AND SERVANS MEAN TO HOLD FORTRESSES THAT ARE CAPTURED.

ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA

Changes Front With Austria and Expectations of Warlike Demonstrations Not Expected Now.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Feb. 1.—A late attempt to prevent a resumption of war in the Balkan peninsula is being made by the representatives of the powers at Constantinople and Sofia, according to information received by the European ambassadors in London. A detailed report on the subject is being expected this evening.

In the meanwhile everything has been made ready for a renewal of hostilities. The members of the Bulgarian peace delegation have received communications from the front in which General Savoff asserts that the army surrounding Adrianople is one of the most efficient ever gathered together.

He declares that every detail for the storming and capture of the city has been carefully prepared. The general commends the spirit of loyal rivalry between the Serbian and Bulgarian troops who in almost equal numbers surround the fortress. Bets are freely offered among the besiegers, he says, as to which nationality will be the first to enter Adrianople. It is asserted here that the Montenegrins and the Greeks have received assurances that Russia and France will support their retention of Scutari and Janina if they succeed in capturing them while the Bulgarians are taking Adrianople.

King Nicholas of Montenegro, on the one side, and Crown Prince Constantine of Greece on the other, declare that they will take the fortresses by storm or lose their lives in the attempt.

Should any fresh proposition to prevent a renewal of war give promise of success the allies will now put as a condition not only the session of Adrianople and the Aegean islands, but also the surrender of Scutari and Janina, to Montenegro and Greece.

Most of the Greeks and Serbian peace delegates left for home today.

Russia's Attitude.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 1.—Austria-Hungary continues the active enrollment of supplementary reservists in the frontier districts bordering on Russian and Serbia, according to a dispatch from Prague.

A force of 250,000 Austro-Hungarian troops is now concentrated on Bosnia. A letter from Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria-Hungary to Emperor Nicholas of Russia, which is expected to clear up the Austro-Russian situation and lead to the demobilization of the Austrian and Russian armies, is on the way from Vienna in the hands of Prince Hohenlohe-Waldenburg-Schillingensfeld, formerly Austro-Hungarian military attaché here.

Russia's Views.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 1.—The Russian government is of the opinion that the new Turkish proposals to the powers furnish a possible basis for further negotiations with the Balkan nations. The foreign office today began an active interchange of views with the other powers in hope of preventing the renewal of hostilities, even at this late hour. The chances of success, however, are considered slender.

FIND EDITOR GUILTY CONTEMPT OF COURT

William R. Nelson, Editor of Kansas City Star, Arouses Ire of Circuit Court Judge Guthrie.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 1.—William R. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, this afternoon pronounced guilty of contempt of court by Judge Joseph A. Guthrie of division one of the Jackson county circuit court.

The contempt was in connection with the publication of an article relating to a divorce case. The court said that the article purported to convey the meaning that the court would pay the lawyer and let the woman starve. "This was untrue," the court said, "and I cannot command respect for this court and if I cannot command respect I shall step out."

Mr. Walsh argued that the Star published the proceedings in the divorce case as a mere matter of news and told nothing but the truth.

ARSON TRUST NATION WIDE IN OPERATIONS

Information Given States Attorney Johnson by Witnesses Examined at Chicago Court Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Feb. 1.—That the alleged "arson trust" is a nation-wide organization with agents in every large city is the information given Assistant State's Attorney Johnson today, who examined several new witnesses in regard to the operations of the men at the head of the conspiracy.

"It is only a question of time before this investigation becomes a national affair," said Mr. Johnson. "At present I am co-operating with officials of a number of cities. I have learned that incendiarism is practiced even in Boston."

Assistant State's Attorney Johnson will go to South Bend, Ind., tomorrow to secure evidence.

CASTRO CAUGHT LIKE A MOUSE IN TRAP

Comment Made by Former Venezuelan Dictator on Retention in New York—Fears Not for Safety.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Feb. 1.—Cipriano Castro, who was captured today, kept close to his quarters in a hotel and announced he was not going out for any purpose. This he explained by saying that he was "caught here like a mouse in a trap." "Do you fear for your personal safety?" he was asked. "I am afraid of no man," the Venezuelan replied, "but I am looking out for No. 1."

General Castro would discuss no further the abrupt abandonment of his sight-seeing plan. From his room he issued a statement declaring his difficulty in setting foot on United States soil, is due to the opposition of certain interests which desired to obtain possession of Venezuelan mines. These interests, he averred, he had always opposed. He continued:

"And for that reason I will go back to Europe as soon as I possibly can, because I do not want to expose myself to new persecution."

ENGLISH MUSEUMS CLOSED TO PUBLIC

Threats of Suffragists Cause Unusual Precautions To Be Taken By Government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Feb. 1.—Owing to the threats of the militant suffragettes to wreck public property until their demands are granted the royal palaces of Kensington, Hampton Court, Kew and Holy Road have been closed to the public until further notice. All four palaces are favorite resorts of the people whose wrath it is thought will be visited on the suffragettes whenever an opportunity offers. It is reported that all the public museums and similar institutions are also to be closed.

The precautions taken by the authorities in the various public buildings appeared fully justified this afternoon when a suffragette entered the tower of London and smashed a glass case in the jewel house with a piece of iron which she had hidden in the sleeve of her coat. She was arrested.

SENATOR NELSON OF MINNESOTA VETERAN MEMBER OF SENATE

Will Celebrate His Seventieth Birthday Tomorrow—Has Long Career As Republican Statesman.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, one of the most picturesque figures in the United States senate and likewise one of the most influential of the Republican members of that body, will celebrate his seventieth birthday tomorrow. Senator Nelson, whose present term will expire next month, has just been re-elected by the Minnesota legislature for another term of six years. In the next Congress he will rank among the veterans of the senate in point of service as well as age. Of the entire membership of the senate as it will be constituted after March 4, only two members, Lodge of Massachusetts and Perkins of California, will have seen longer service in the upper house than the senator from Minnesota.

Both Senators Lodge and Perkins came to the senate in 1893, two years before Senator Nelson made his appearance.

The career of Senator Nelson is of much more than ordinary interest, and in several respects unique. The story of his life has many of the salient features of a romance, including the picturesque and unusual. Born on a little farm near the city of Bergen, in the southwestern part of Norway, he accompanied his widowed mother to America when six years old. The family was practically penniless and the early youth of the future senator was one of hardships and privation. Undoubtedly it was the remembrance of these early days that prompted Senator Nelson to come to the aid of folk Brandt, the young Scandinavian whose pardon he was instrumental in securing and whom he has taken to Minnesota to begin life anew.

Chicago was Senator Nelson's first home in America. Here he aided in the support of the family by selling papers on the streets. In 1850 the mother and son went to Walworth county, Wis., and located on an unproductive little sand farm. When he was 16 young Knute heard that at Albia Seminary, which was conducted by Seventh-Day Baptists, a boy could get an education without money. He crossed out on a tramp of six months to see about it. For two years he remained at the seminary, doing chores for people in the vicinity to pay for his tuition and board.

When the war broke out Senator Nelson, with twenty of his fellow students, enlisted. He served three years, was wounded, taken prisoner at Port Hudson and came out a corporal. He then finished his seminary course, read law in Senator Vilas' office in Madison, was admitted to the bar, and elected to the Wisconsin legislature before he was 24 years old.

In 1870 he removed from Wisconsin to Minnesota. In his new home he speedily took an active interest in politics, serving four terms in the Minnesota legislature. After three terms in Congress he was elected governor of Minnesota in 1892 and served two terms. He was elected to the United States senate first in 1895, and has been three times re-elected.

While Senator Nelson has been generally classed as a regular Republican and usually votes with the majority of his party in the senate, he has shown great independence at times especially on the tariff question. As a member of the lower house he voted for the Mills Democratic tariff bill. Two years ago he voted against the Payne-Aldrich bill, a Republican measure. He voted for the La Follette bill at the special session last summer. A week or so later he opposed the conference report on that measure. In the same session he voted against the Democratic cotton revision bill.

During his long career in public life Mr. Nelson has devoted his attention to a variety of questions and he has made his mark on the statute books. He is the author of the present bankruptcy law. He is the father of the Department of Commerce and Labor. It was at the instance of Senator Nelson that the Republican national convention in 1900 adopted a plank committing the party to the creation of such a department. He drew the bill under which the department was created.

While Senator Nelson is a bit old fashioned, he is proud of it. He takes no part in Washington society, has no fondness for what is termed club life, and probably has not seen the inside of a theatre half a dozen times in his life. He is a great student of history and his favorite recreation is to read about the great sea and land fighters of the past. Probably no man in public life today has a more intimate knowledge of the history of the American civil war than the Norwegian senator who carried a musket through three years of the great conflict.

PLOT TO STAMPEDE SUFFRAGIST PARADE

Washington, D. C., Students Are Collecting Mice Which They Will Let Loose Among Fair Marchers, March 3rd.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Feb. 1.—Rats and mice were counted upon by college students to stampede the suffragist parade on March 3rd and the unusual demand for rodents was explained today when the plot that has spread over virtually every college in the capital was learned.

The collegians intend, it has been learned to post their forces along the length of Pennsylvania avenue, and at a pre-arranged signal dash into the marching line with handbags and parcels containing the mice shaking them out into the street. They anticipate the greatest display of hosiery and lingerie ever seen.

When the plot was uncovered the suffrage leaders were dismayed. An appeal was made to the police and Commissioner Rudolph has promised protection. The police however, cannot make arrests until after the mice have been liberated and the women fail to remedy the situation. "It's perfectly horrid," said a blond suffragist at the national headquarters today in commenting on the prospect. "Of course, I am not frightened, but there are so many women who are timid and besides, a mouse is a mouse."

In an effort to convert the men to the cause of universal suffrage it was announced today that a series of meetings for men only, will be held next week. The speakers will be women and they will be prepared to answer any question that may be asked.

FINANCE COMMITTEE TO HANDLE BUDGET

State Appropriations Will Be Recommended by Joint Committee Instead of in Separate Bills.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—The large financial bill of the legislature will not be introduced from the floor of the house this year. They will come before both bodies of the legislature as committee measures, recommended by the joint finance committee. This order of handling the measures has just been decided upon.

Heretofore it was the custom to distribute the appropriation bills among the members for introduction. It was always a matter of some speculation as to who would offer the university appropriation bill.

Ask for Estimates.

The joint finance committee has sent a letter to all of the departments and institutions requiring a regular appropriation asking for the submission of their estimates at once so that the committee can take up the work of considering the bills at once. These estimates will be furnished the committee before next Wednesday. With the aid of expert service, for which the legislature has already appropriated $5,500, the joint committee will consider these estimates and ascertain the smallest amount necessary to conduct the affairs of the state, contingent with the present growing conditions. The result will be that a budget containing all of the appropriations will be sent back to the legislature in final form until late in the session, but hearings on different features of it will be started in a few days.

Hearings on Bills.

From five to twenty bills are listed by each of the committees for hearing next week. Speaker Hull said today that after Tuesday, when the first hearings are to be held, there will be a calendar for consideration each day. Some of the committees have already reported bills back to the house for action and these will be taken up immediately. There have been fewer bills introduced thus far in the session than during the first ten days of the session two years ago.

The counting of the ballots in the Clark-O'Day election contest will be started Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock by the assembly election committee and it is expected that this matter will be cleared up by Wednesday.

THAW FINISHES FIVE YEARS IN MATTEAWAN

To All Appearances in Much Better Condition Than During First Years of Confinement.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Harry K. Thaw today completed five years' incarceration at the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane, to which institution he was sentenced after the second jury which tried him for the murder of Stanford White found him insane. To all appearances Thaw is in much better condition, physically and mentally, than he was during the first year or two of his confinement in Matteawan. He seems to take a philosophical view of his situation and appears to be much more contented than at first. Much of his time is spent in reading or in conversation with the prison attendants and a few inmates with whom he has struck up an intimacy. Recently a number of his days has been considerably relieved by a magnificent phonograph presented to him by his mother. So far as is known there is no plan in contemplation for the near future to gain Thaw's freedom by hapeas corpus proceedings.

CUMMINGS SUPPORTS PROPOSED AMENDMENT

CUMMINGS SUPPORTS ASKS FOR POPULAR VOTE ON SINGLE SIX-YEAR TERM FOR PRESIDENT.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Feb. 1.—Senator Cummings opened the debate today on the Works proposed amendment to the constitution to limit a president to a single six-year term by proposing to permit voters to amend the constitution directly without previous action of congress when "a substantial majority" demanded such a change. He declared that with the exception of George Washington these presidents who had served two terms would have been better had they served but one. Senator Cummings declared a president's work was often "neglected and badly performed" because of attention to efforts for re-nomination and re-election.

"I believe a president would do his duty more efficiently if no influence can affect him," he said. "I think the Sherman anti-trust law will be more thoroughly administered, more energetically applied to all persons alike if the president of the United States is made free from all the influence which these great interests may exert."

Six Year Term.

Washington, Feb. 1.—When the senate again took up the Works single six years' term proposed amendment to the constitution, it began its third day's debate upon that question, despite the fact that the senate was still officially in the legislative day of Thursday. All proposed amendments to exempt President Taft, Colonel Roosevelt, and President-elect Wilson from its operation having been defeated yesterday, the senate was ready to take up the debate upon the Works resolution itself and voted upon it before adjournment today.

Senator Borah declared that with the chance of re-election before a president this "subtle and insidious influence" of corporation interests was counter balanced by the influence of the public demand that law be enforced. Senator Cummings declared the president should be taken out of the "maelstrom of politics." "He ought not to travel from one end of the country to the other," he said, "appealing to the people in the same way as a candidate for any other office. The duties of the president's office are sufficient to consume all his time and strength and are important enough to merit all of his attention and devotion."

President Taft's first official act was to sign the congressional resolution providing for the re-election of a memorial here to Abraham Lincoln in Potomac Park. Senator Culom of Illinois, who was a friend of Lincoln's and worked for years to get congress interested in a memorial to the great statesman. The plan approved will require an appropriation of two million dollars which will be made later.

HAMPTON INSTITUTE CELEBRATES ORIGIN

Many Visitors Come for Annual Founder's Day Celebration—Does Valuable Work Among Negroes.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Hampton, Va., Feb. 1.—Many visitors have come to Hampton Institute this week for the Founder's Day celebration. The exercises are held each year to mark the anniversary of the birth of Gen. Samuel C. Armstrong, to whom the institute owes its existence.

At the close of the Civil war Gen. Armstrong was placed in charge of the Freedmen's Bureau district that embraced the ten counties about Hampton. Here the negroes came in desperate need and found protection and aid, and for those who were ill a good military hospital.

Gen. Armstrong appealed to the American Missionary Association in aid, and urged the need of a school for the children in the district. Land was purchased at Hampton—and the Hampton Institute began. For many years Gen. Armstrong remained in charge of the school, which today is educating nearly 1,500 young negro men and women in the practical trades by which they may support themselves in after life. Of late years the institute has given much attention to the teaching of scientific agriculture.

As the concluding feature of the Founder's Day celebration the new institute Y. M. C. A. building, known as Clarke Hall, will be dedicated tomorrow. The dedication address will be delivered by Dr. William J. Schieffelin of New York city, who is a trustee of Hampton Institute. The building has been made possible by the gift of $30,000 by Mrs. Charles S. Clarke of New York as a memorial to her husband.

Sport Snap Shots

by Dan McCarty

New York baseball fans may have the opportunity of witnessing their favorite game on Sunday during the season of 1913. Gay old Gotham, in which more crooked deals are pulled off in a year than are thought of in all the rest of the country during the same length of time, is too virtuous to permit baseball playing on Sunday. There must be an outward semblance of decency. In Jersey City, however, Sunday ball is permitted, and the plan is now to build a large ball park in Jersey City at the end of the Hudson river tunnel lines to Newark. Here the New York teams could play any day of the week. The proposed park is within 20 minutes' ride of Herald Square, the center of New York city.

The old system, once in vogue in the big leagues, of swapping players until a good team was built up has fallen into disuse. The Boston Red Sox have but one man—Jake Stahl—who wasn't brought up from the minors and trained in the bean city. Even Jake was Boston property early in the game, for he belonged to the Red Sox before going to Washington and New York. Washington, the second team in the American league, and the Philadelphia Athletics, ranking third, are "up from the bushes" organizations.

Tom McCarty of California now holds undisputed sway as the leading light promoter. He divided the honor until recently with Hugh McIntosh of Australia. Some years ago McCarty, Coffroth and McIntosh were known as the "Solid Three." Coffroth quit when he had accumulated more money than he could spend in two lifetimes, and now McIntosh has retired.

Jim Thorpe, professional Indian athlete is in no very great need of sympathy. Since the medals he won at Stockholm have been taken away from him he has had all sorts of offers to play on big league ball teams. He no doubt would prove a great drawing card for any club.

Young Combel cannot understand the ways of the world. Human nature puzzles him. "Here is a case," spoke the former champion. "I've been on the water wagon for four months and within that time have received hundreds of invitations to drink liquor. But not one soul ever asked me to have a bite to eat. Not that I wanted a meal, but it simply shows that people pay more attention to crooking their elbows than juggling the silverware."

Armando Marsans, Cincinnati Red outfielder, is a holdout. Reports from Havana, where Armando lives, are rather vague as to his reasons for holding out, but it is believed that he objects to playing in the sunfield, which place will be vacated by Mike Mitchell and turned over to the Cuban star. The combination of sun, smoke and haze is worse at Cincinnati than at any other grounds in the league, and Marsans has played in the right field times enough to know what a disagreeable job it is.

Manager Stovall of the St. Louis Browns will make a big effort to induce his boys to come across with an improved brand of speed on the base lines this coming season. Year after year the Browns have been lamentably weak in this department of the game. Last year they pilfered but 176 sacks as against 275 by the Detroit Tigers. The news from St. Louis now is that fans there are looking forward to a much improved pilfer column in 1913.

The Jack Britton-Packer McFarland bout has been declared off as McFarland refused to box for the guarantee offered by the New York promoters.

POLO TEAM DEFEATS LEADERS OF LEAGUE

Janesville Men Play Valiant Game to Beat Racine Team 3 to 2 Last Night.

The Janesville Moose roller polo team defeated the Racine team at the local rink last night by the close score of three to two. This is the Janesville team's first victory and it came at the most unexpected time. The Racine team are leaders of the league and had not lost a game until the Janesville team stopped their winning streak in the most interesting contest ever played in Janesville. The local fans had very little hope of Janesville beating the Racine men but with their hard practice and new players the Janesville team demonstrated that they will be the leaders of the league if they keep up the fast pace that they did last night.

In the first third, Racine got the start of Janesville and played a spectacular game but the local players soon got busy and did some excellent work. Edler started the scoring for Janesville when he caged a goal after Racine had shown some good team work advancing the ball down the floor. Kilmer made the first score for Janesville by clever dodging and hard shooting. The play was very fast in this third and the spectators were held in suspense by the furious playing.

Racine started scoring soon after the call of time, making a goal from a difficult angle. Blakeley scored Janesville's second goal and the excitement was more intense than ever. The two teams fought hard to break the tie and Fred Gaffey made the goal which won for the Janesville team.

Neither side scored during the last third, and Janesville endeavoring to hold her lead of one point, played a perfect defensive game. This victory has given the Moose team the proper amount of confidence and the players say it is only the beginning of a successful season.

Blakeley and Kilmer demonstrated that they were as good players as there is in the league for their playing was faultless. Langdon showed excellent ability as goal tender, stopping hard and difficult shots. Mooreman was the star of the Racine team for he was the hardest to stop of the opposing team.

Janesville—Blakeley, first rush, Kilmer, second rush, Schaffer, center, Conley, half-back, Langdon, goal.

VICTORY TO LOCALS BY A CLOSE SCORE

High School Five Wins Hard Game at Evansville by the Score of 25 To 17.

Janesville high school smothered the hopes of the Evansville high school team last night at that place by defeating them in a hard game. The final score was 25 to 17. The locals were always in danger, as the close score shows. Playing to a disadvantage on a small floor, the locals were swamped for want of team work, and played their hardest to nose out a victory. The game practically decided which team would go to the Appleton tournament this spring. Evansville is now out of the race, but Janesville still has a fight on her hands. They may meet their equal before the season closes, but it is thought no team will exceed the onslaught of the Evansville team. The locals were having considerable hard luck at basket shooting, while Evansville took every chance and were lucky.

At the start of the game, it looked like a no score game as neither team was able to register a basket. Soon the locals acquired a lead which was rather hard for the Evansville bunch to overcome. Atwood led off with a basket, and then Antes, the fast forward for Evansville secured a free throw and a basket. Atwood followed with two and then Dalton added another. Hemming got a free throw in here, and brought the score up to 7 to 3. Atwood again got an spurt and added two baskets for his team. The half ended with the locals in the lead with the score 11 to 7. Atwood and Dalton played the stellar role for the locals in this half.

Fatter, Edler and Hemming proved their comeback ability in the second half by forming the teamwork for the locals. Hemming and Atwood each secured a basket at the opening of this half and which was followed shortly after with another basket by Hemming. Milligan saw the basket for the first time in the game, and counted two points for his team. Atwood now caged his sixth basket of the game, showing his wonderful ability. The game was somewhat ragged from now on, and just before the half ended Edler by some classy floor work, secured two baskets in rapid succession. The final score was 25 to 17. The lineup and score is as follows: Janesville—Atwood, 1; f. Dalton, 1; f. Hemming, center; Capt. Fatter, r. g.; Edler, 1; g. Evansville—Wilder, Jones, 1; f. Antes, 1; f. Milligan, center; Fellows, 1; g.; Hyne, r. g. Baskets—Atwood, 6; Hemming, 2; Edler, 2; Dalton, 1; Antes, 3; Wilder 2; Milligan, 1; Jones, 1. Free throws Hemming 3; Antes 3.

BELOIT COMUS CLUB BEATS LOCAL TEAM

Janesville Maroons Meet a Tough Proposition in Game at Line City Last Night.

The Beloit Comus club defeated the Janesville Maroons last night on the Beloit Y. M. C. A. floor by the score of 31 to 15. The Comus team showed more knowledge of the intercollegiate style of game and were superior to the Maroons in many lines. The Beloit players had the one-bounce game down to perfection and the Janesville team was unable to cope with their tactics. Wilson starred for Janesville, making three field baskets over T. Gharitty, Beloit's best guard. The Gharitty brothers played the best game for the Line City team, E. Gharitty making five field goals and one foul while his brother's guarding was the principal reason of Janesville's defeat. Myer at center and Burger at forward proved to be sure shots and were important factors in Beloit's scoring.

Summary. Maroons. 2. Gharitty, 1; f. Wilson, 1; f. Burger, 1; f. Stickney, 1; f. Cunningham, 1; g. Leaver, 1; g. Frerch, 1; g. Mott, 1; g. Field goals: Wilson, 3; Stickney, 2; Mott, 1; E. Gharitty, 5; Myer, 4; Burger, 3; Leaver, 2; T. Gharitty, 1. Foul goals: Cunningham, 2; Wilson, 1; E. Gharitty, 1.

To Discuss Social Reforms. Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 1.—Many problems of social reform are to be discussed by eminent experts at the annual meeting of the New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction, which will begin a three days' session here tomorrow. Among the officers and prominent members of the conference are President-Elect Woodrow Wilson, ex-Governor J. Franklin Fort, ex-Governor Franklin Murphy and Bishops McFaul and Lines.

FURTHER WAGE RAISE GIVEN COAL MINERS

Increases in Federated Area of England and Wales Amount to Five Per Cent—Money Order Receipts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, England, Jan. 31.—Coal miners in the Federated Area of England and Wales have been given a further increase in wages of five per cent, effective in January. This is in addition to the five per cent increase granted last October, and it brings the wages of all the men in and around the mines up to sixty per cent above the standard rate of 1888.

Later the coal trade has been booming, and the miners are thus sharing in the prosperity of the owners. This last advance was granted by the unanimous vote of the Coal Conciliation Board, composed of mine owners and representatives of the miners' union. It adds upward of $5,000,000 to the annual payroll of 400,000 men.

The Scottish and South Wales coal fields, where there is always more or less trouble between the men and the employers, are not in the Federated Area.

Sir Henniker Heaton, who was largely responsible for the introduction of the penny postage between the Colonies and Great Britain and between England and America, has been gathering statistics which show that last year $35,000,000 were received in the United Kingdom from America and the Colonies in money orders.

Some of this money, of course, was in payment for goods, but Sir Henniker estimates that by far the larger portion was sent as Christmas or other presents from those who have prospered across the waters to poorer relatives at home. From the United States alone there came over $14,000,000, of which $5,000,000 was for Ireland. Canada sent $11,500,000, Australia $2,500,000, India $1,700,000, New Zealand $1,200,000, South Africa $4,000,000 and other places about $1,500,000.

There is buried in India every year a sum of gold equal to the amount taken yearly from the mines of South Africa. The African miners extract this treasure from the grip of the earth to put in it circulation; the natives of India seize it with avidity, hoard it and hide it, save it and lay it away. They guard it for the future and effectively remove it from circulation. Thus is the work of the South African miner largely nullified.

These facts are derived from statistics issued lately by a firm of Indian bankers, and the amount of wealth in gold, jewels and precious stones stored away and buried in India today is practically incalculable.

Gold is put also to some queer uses in India. In some parts of the country thin gold leaves are taken by the people for medicinal purposes, and thousands of dollars worth is consumed in regilding the domes of religious buildings. A brisk demand having recently been noticed for sovereigns with a shield on the obverse side, an inquiry was made and it was found that a certain rajah had imported them to form a centre to each tiny pane in the windows of his palace.

MONSTER SUBMARINE FOR BRITISH NAVY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, England, Feb. 1.—The first of England's monster submarines, the E4, has just been commissioned. The new vessel is a remarkable advance upon her predecessors of the "D" class. She has four times the displacement of the A's and carries a pair of 12-pounder quick-firing guns, with disappearing mounts. Her oil engines of 1,750 horsepower give her a speed of 16 knots on the surface and 10 knots submerged. The surface tonnage is 700. Two more vessels of the same class are completing and work has been commenced on the "F" class, which will have a speed of 20 knots.

The increase in the size of all England's warships, from battleships to submarines, and the higher wages to be paid the men is going to have an appreciable effect on this year's naval estimates, which it is believed, will approximate $250,000,000, an increase of nearly fifty millions over last year.

The personnel of the navy will materially swell the expenditure, as it is understood that Prince Louis of Battenberg, who as Second Sea Lord, was responsible for the recruiting and training, consented to take the position of First Sea Lord and become chargeable for maintaining the fighting and seagoing efficiency of the fleet and its organization for war, on the distinct understanding that a progressive line of policy would be adopted forthwith in regard to the personnel. The new estimates have also to take account of the renewed competition of Germany and her allies to the Triple Alliance.

PROBE APPOINTMENT BY CIVIL SERVICE

Alleged That Caste and Patronage Are Taken Into Consideration By English Boards. [BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Feb. 1.—The method of making appointments to civil service positions in England is now being investigated, largely because of the simple frankness of a certain applicant in Dublin. This man was applying for the position of ambulance nurse. He told the Board of Guardians he considered himself fully qualified for the post, as he had "two uncles and one cousin on the Board."

A Royal Commission has been appointed to enquire into the entire situation of civil service appointments, and the Association of Clerks has presented some strong criticisms of present methods. It is alleged that caste and patronage are taken into consideration, particularly in the appointment of officials of the Labor Exchanges, who are chosen not because of their qualifications, but because of their ability to bring personal influence to bear. Most of the best positions went to sons or relatives of politicians or officials, thus supporting the suggestion that the best places are kept for a certain class of the community. A representative of the association asked directly by the chairman of the Commission, Lord Macdonnell, whether he thought there was any ground for the suggestion that heads of departments were plainly biased in favor of a certain social class, replied: "I should say so. I think it unquestionably a preference for the class of man who is recruited in the main as we have seen, from Oxford and Cambridge."

Mrs. S. S. Van Buren, St. King street, N. Y. (full name furnished on application) had such decided benefit from using Foley's Honey & Tar Compound that she shares her good fortune with others. She writes: "Foley's Honey & Tar Compound brought my voice back to me during a severe case of bronchitis and laryngitis. Oh, how many people I have recommended it to. Remember the name Foley's Honey & Tar Compound, and refuse substitutes. It contains no opiates. Badger Drug Co."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

Will not for perished chances passed away!
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day.
At sunrise every soul is born again.

When down in mire, wring not your hands and weep.
I lend my arms to all who say, "I can."
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell.
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven.
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell.
Each night a star to guide thy feet to Heaven.

—Wichita Beacon.

The truth contained in this little poem is so important that it is worth considering. The world is full of people who imagine that opportunity never comes to a life but once, and they are still waiting for the appearance. This class of people are always on the waiting list because they are so dense that an opportunity would not be recognized if it was labeled.

A story in a late magazine, tells of a boy whose father died when the lad was fourteen years of age. The mother and three younger children were dependent, and the care of the home was forced upon him without warning.
He left school and took up with the first work that offered.

Responsibility, with all its heavy burdens, added years to his mental saturity. In a night. He soon discovered that any boy could be a clerk or an office boy, and that many men in middle life, were satisfied to do the same kind of work for meager pay.

He also discovered that a small class of men were filling positions of trust and responsibility, and reaping liberal reward. Then ambition came to his aid, and he formed a purpose to go to the front. Every change he made was an advanced step. At the age of twenty-two he was credit man at a salary of $4,000, and a few years later his salary had been doubled by a larger house.

This boy was a close observer, and he was not long in finding out that opportunities for advancement are based on merit, and so his constant ambition was to acquire merit, and he succeeded.

The boy who plods along, day after day, and month after month, with his eyes on the ground, and his mind on everything but the work in hand, develops the sort of man who always complains about the lack of opportunity.

"A lad in the outskirts of Albany,
New York, and only twelve years of age, has made a world record. The state fair board offered a prize for the largest yield from one seed potato.
Each contestant was furnished one potato of a special and unusual variety in his part of the state.

"Eugene Durand raised and exhibited 656 pounds of potatoes, twelve bushels, of contest quality and size, and left at home, unweighed, about two bushels of non-exhibitable size. So far as known, this is fully twice the yield ever before known from one potato.

"The potato had fourteen eyes.
Each of these was planted in a horbed. When the sprout was about three inches high, he cut it off and placed it in sand, where it took root.
Durand then set it out in soil adapted to potatoes. The sprouts kept on growing, and he kept on rooting them and then transplanting them, and great was the harvest thereof."

The authority for this remarkable statement is the "Farm and Fireside."
It is simply another evidence of a boy who had his ear close to the ground, and opportunity had no trouble in attracting his attention. Every other farmer's boy in the state had the same chance but the most of them passed it up with a smile.

The boy who captured the prize secured more than the little purse which it represented, for while he was watching the eyes of the potato multiply, under skillful encouragement, his mind expanded and grasped the great problem of intensified farming—a field of opportunity so vast that we have simply skirted the edges. People explore in vain for gold and silver, and then come back to the soil to find that the "acre of diamonds" is close at hand.

The life of every American boy and girl, in normal condition, is environed by opportunity, seldom recognized, and rarely appreciated, but a fact nevertheless.

It takes them by the hand and leads them to the school, provided at public expense, and bids them enter and acquire the knowledge necessary to the foundation for life work.

It leaves to the parent and teacher to impress upon the mind the fact that this is the one and only opportunity of a life time to acquire this kind of knowledge, and where the seed takes root, the mind develops, and opportunity again meets it at the threshold of active life and encourages ambition to reach out for the prizes—just ahead.

Elbert Hubbard, of Rovercraft fame, has long preached the doctrine that old age is a myth, and that people who are living on borrowed time are not old, but simply seventy-five or eighty years young.

It is a fairy delusion for time marches on with steady pace, and the toll of the years is religiously collected. The brain may be just as active, but the feet respond more slowly, the eye is not quite so bright, the ear is less sensitive, and the occupant of the frail tabernacle realizes that age is a reality.

There is no occasion for complaint, because the ripened shock is the crowning glory of the harvest, but these veteran pilgrims who dot the highway, are object lessons which the advancing hosts can well afford to study.

They have passed the age of ambition, which is the expression of hope.
They are beyond the circle which envies the realm of opportunity, and often they are strangers in the land which they so long possessed, because they have outlived their generation, and their life-long associates are dwellers in the Silent City.

We do not appreciate the fact, until we meet the problem face to face, that the associations of life have much to do with contentment and happiness. Opportunity provides the way to make friends, all through the active years of the journey, and we grasp it eagerly. But these old people, dwelling out on the edge of time, are compelled to draw on their own resources, and unless the mind and heart have been richly stored, during the years of opportunity, the resources frequently dwindle to a sacred memory.

The age of opportunity, so far as business or a calling is concerned, usually closes before middle life is reached. The boy who has not found his vocation, before that time, rarely finds it, and the man who changes his occupation, after the central milestone is passed, usually makes a mistake.

But the early years are rich in opportunity, waiting for recognition and appropriation. If you should stroll around the city of New York for a month and note the nationalities of the men engaged in business, you would discover that the Jew is largely in the ascendancy.

Why? Because the Jew lands at Castle Garden possessed of the single ambition to profit by the opportunities which this free land offers in rich abundance. He starts with a push cart and lands behind the counter, while our American boys are waiting for something to turn up.

The Jew is an opportunity seeker.
He ought to be an inspiration to the boys and young men of this country.
He is never a tramp or a drunkard,
and you never find him in a dull town or dead city.

The class of opportunities which come to us at every stage of the journey are the opportunities to do good.
They exact nothing from us that the most humble can not perform, and they pay as they go. Let us do good in our day and generation, for "we will never pass this way but once."

SCRIPTURE

Judges 6:19-23.
And Gideon went in, and made ready a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour; the flesh he put in a basket and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him under the oak, and presented it.
An angel of God said unto him,
Take the flesh and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock;

This structure was found inside the old court house at Mineral Point when it was demolished recently. One of the interesting items about the old structure is that the hand-made shackles and ball and chain with which early prisoners were safeguarded against escape, were found inside the structure, the court house having been built around it and the old structure used for many years as a jail even after the other building was constructed.

And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the Lord, Gideon said, Alas, O Lord God! for because I have seen an angel of the Lord face to face.

And the Lord said unto him, Peace be unto thee; fear not; thou shalt not die.

N. R. RAESSLER WINS
PRIZES AT EXHIBIT

Word has been received in the city announcing that N. R. Raessler, who conducts a large farm between this city and Beloit, won the world's championship on pedigree barley and the grand champion prize for the northern zone, on corn at the National Corn and Grain Exhibit at Columbia, South Carolina. There is also a good prospect for Wisconsin to win the main prizes on clover, sheafs of grains and alfalfa. Assemblyman Kruger of Beaver Dam, won the prize on Oder-brucker barley at the same exhibit.

OPPORTUNITY

A Cabinet Ready Made.
Oh listen here, dear Woodrow.
You should not fume or fret
Concerning the appointment
Of your new cabinet.
Of course, they are all anxious
To do the thing for you—
To pick out your assistants,
And see the matter through.
But there's no use to worry.
We know where you can find
A cabinet that's ready made
And willing to be signed.
Just take this tip, friend Woodrow,
And you need fret no more:
Accept this bunch of and take the bunch
Down at our grocery store.

There's Uncle Ezra Harkins,
Who knows each nation's fate;
Write him a note and get him for Secretary of state.
Red Peters is a fighter.
And knows what fight's for;
You could get him, we know, for your Secretary of war.
The agriculture sinecure
Should go to Agnes Jones,
Who poses as an expert, but
Has mortgaged all he owns.
The naval job should be a snip
For Uncle Abner Hymes,
He knows a lot about the boats,
He's crossed the lake three times.

The treasury department
Should go to Henry Swank;
He kin come and money might fast;
He works down in our bank.
And he kin tell a counterfeit,
By gold, or bogus bill,
And kin detect a lead ten-cent piece
When it drops in the till.
Attorney general's a cinch
Give that to old Squire Lunk;
He's never lost a line fence suit
And knows a nunc pro tunc.
Interior department?
Old Doctor Hawks confides.
He kin tell every organ
We've got in our insides.

Those fellows are experts
That hang around the store.
They'll all take the positions,
So you need fret no more.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Two Children Narrowly Escape Death
When Building Was Burned
To Ground Today.

Beloit, Feb. 1.—Harold and Geraldine Smith, 11 and 8, respectively narrowly escaped death at 11 o'clock this morning when they were trapped in the Christian church which was destroyed by fire. They are children of the janitress of the church and it is thought were trying to build a fire in a little stove in the rear of the building.
They were alone at the time and could not get out of the burning structure until rescued by firemen. They are seriously burned, but may recover.
The church was a small frame building and gained considerable fame by being built in a single day Memorial Day, 1911. The loss is about $1500.

Prices
Marked in Plain Figures:

When you mark goods in plain figures there's no argument. When you are buying an article in any store it's safe to say that you have more confidence in the firm with whom you are trading if the goods are marked in plain figures than you would have if they were marked in characters. In the first instance, you know that you are buying the article as cheap as it can be bought—but not so the other way, because if you happen to look easy to the salesperson the price may go up. You can't tell, and, in fact,
would not know if the price was raised—would you? Our one price system has been one of the biggest factors of our success. We mark everything in plain figures. A child can buy as cheaply at this store as an adult. Think it over and then call and see for yourself.

PARIS AUTO BANDITS
FACE TRIAL MONDAY

Twenty-one Members of Gang to be Brought into Court—Several Killed in Resisting Police.

Paris, Jan. 31.—Not since Mme.
Steinhil was tried several years ago
for the alleged murder of her husband and mother-in-law, has a trial in Paris excited the intense interest exhibited in the cases of the surviving members of the Bonnot-Garnier gang of motor bandits, who will be called to the bar next Monday to answer to a long list of charges of robbery and murder. Though a number of members of the gang, including the most prominent leaders, met death in resisting the sensational siege by the police some months ago, there are still twenty-one members who are to be tried.
For the accommodation of the unusually large number of prisoners a special dock has been built in the assize court at the Palais de Justice. It has also been deemed advisable to construct in the courtroom a large glass case for the numerous exhibits, including an amazing assortment of revolvers, carbines, daggers, slungshots and other weapons found on the prisoners when they were taken into custody.

CITY SAVING MONEY BY MUNICIPAL QUARRY

PRODUCING CRUSHED STONE AT FAR LESS COST THAN CAN BE BOUGHT.

REPORT ON OPERATION

Shows That Cost to City Per Cubic Yard of Stone has Been Reduced During Past Year.

That the city of Janesville is saving twenty-six cents per cubic yard of stone used by operating its own quarry and crushing plant instead of buying it in the open market, and that the cost of producing stone has been reduced to one-half cent per cubic yard since last year, despite exceptional expenses for repairing broken machinery is revealed by the report of the city stone crusher from January 1, 1912 to January 1, 1913, just completed by City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund. The net cost of crushed stone per cubic yard during the year past was eighty-nine and one-half cents per cubic yard; the net cost of producing crushed stone per cubic yard during the previous year, as nearly as could be ascertained, was ninety-two cents. Waukesha stone, the nearest available supply of good quality, would cost the city $1.15 per cubic yard f. o. b. cars.

The present city council is perhaps the first to make public a detailed report of the operation and finances of the city stone crusher which has been popularly regarded as a rat hole down which was poured tax-payers' money, and a standing example of the inefficiency of municipally owned and operated enterprises. The creditable showing is made in spite of the advance in the cost of labor which has not been less than twenty-five percent. Common laborers who were formerly paid $1.50 per day are now paid $2.00 per day. Labor is the largest item in the expense of operating the quarry. Out of the total net cost of operation—$5,475.17—the sum of $4,119.97 was spent for labor. The net cost of labor was $30.75 per day.

Economies in the operation of the crusher will have to be effected primarily through reducing the amount of labor required. The city council has in mind improvements which will bring about the result. At the present time the storage bins are of inadequate capacity and the stone has to be hauled too great a distance to the crusher. Under existing conditions the crusher cannot supply stone for two street improvements in progress simultaneously. If the bins were sufficiently capacious the crusher could be kept running for long periods and enough stone stored to meet any reasonable demand. Had such been the case last year the projected improvement of Milwaukee Street could have been completed, but the crusher was not able to furnish stone for that and the Washington Street improvement at the same time.

By moving the crushing machinery closer to the supply of stone and erecting large bins on the hill above from which the wagons would be loaded by gravity the city could eliminate the necessity of waiting for stone, and materially reduce the amount of manual labor needed. Ten teams working continuously are now required to empty the bins in a very short time and it is necessary to use a tramway and cars to convey the stone from the quarry to the crusher.

Janesville's city charter imposes a handicap on its stone crusher which prevents it from operating with the maximum efficiency. The city is prohibited from engaging in the sale of stone and consequently is placed at a disadvantage. Although maintaining a plant as expensive as a private concern it can not be run to its full capacity and the overhead charges per cubic yard, interest, depreciation, etc., are bound to be much higher. The Janesville stone is of good quality and marketable. It has no local concern with which it might come into competition, and it seems an anachronism that the charter should continue to stand in the way of the municipal quarry being made as efficient as possible. If the city could sell stone the cost to the city of its own stone could be reduced, and with an increased output it would be worth while to extend siding in to the quarry. This would permit cars of stone to be "spotted" on the nearest sidings and the cost of hauling stone to the streets be very much reduced.

TO HOLD DEDICATION OF CHURCH EDIFICE

TO FORMALLY OPEN BEAUTIFUL CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HOUSE OF WORSHIP TO-MORROW.

PLAN THREE SERVICES

Simplicity Will Mark Morning Dedication Exercises Which Will Be Repeated Afternoon and Evening.

Simplicity will be the keynote of the dedicatory services which will be held at the new Christian Science church edifice, corner of Pleasant and South High streets tomorrow morning at ten-thirty o'clock. In addition to the regular exercises which will be conducted as usual by the first reader, Mrs. James E. Field, and the second reader, Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy, the reading of the history of the local church by Mrs. Field will be the only ceremony to mark the dedication.

Arrangements have been made, however, to hold three services: the morning meeting at the usual hour, 10:30; an afternoon gathering at 2:15; and another in the evening at 7:30, at all of which the lesson subject on "Love," and the other portions of the service will be identical. This program was decided upon in order to accommodate all who care to attend the dedication. The public is cordially invited to all the meetings.

Although the congregation has held two previous meetings in the new edifice, one last Sunday and the mid-week service on Wednesday night, work on the interior was not entirely finished until late today. Carpets on the rostrum and aisles were laid this morning, the last of the radiators were unboxed, and other finishing touches were made by the interior decorators.

From an architectural viewpoint the new church is a gem of its kind. The building committee of the church spent considerable time on the selection of the plans which were finally drawn by S. S. Bennet of Chicago. Every detail of both the interior and exterior has been carefully worked out in conformance with the colonial style which characterizes the Christian Science church edifices.

The structure is built of Ohio gray brick with trimmings of Bedford stone, cement porches and six large pillars in front.

The interior color scheme is beautiful and attractive. The arched central portion of the ceiling is supported by six large white Doric columns and is tinted an ivory shade. The side walls are finished in a cream shade and the woodwork around the windows is in white with pews and doors of mahogany finish. The windows of diamond-shaped amber tinted glass add much to the beauty of the interior. There are three large windows on either side of the auditorium while small windows give light to the foyer and vestibule. The indirect system of artificial lighting with large combed-bowls suspended with brass chains is another feature of the interior decorations.

It has been just six months since the ground was broken for the building. Entire supervision of the construction work and decorating has been in charge of the building committee composed of Mr. P. Richardson, Mrs. Frank Sherer, Mrs. P. Lovejoy and Leo H. Atwood, to whose thorough and painstaking efforts the congregation is deeply indebted.

The entire property is free from debt and the building committee is ready to pay for every bit of work and material which still remains unsettled. All contributions were made unsolicited at the regular monthly construction fund collections to which the members of the church gave as they felt they were able. There were no subscription lists and no exhortations to make pledges; the money was quietly secured and the work was not begun until it was certain that the amount in view was sufficient to make a complete settlement. It is estimated that the building will cost some $20,000 complete.

BIGGEST RAILROAD STATION COMPLETED

New Grand Central Terminal at New York Will be Opened for Service Tomorrow—Covers 80 Acres.

[Special to the Gazette.] New York, Feb. 1.—The new Grand Central terminal in this city will be opened for service tomorrow, although it will still be several months before the finishing touches are put to the great structure and the workmen's scaffolds removed. Comparatively few persons, even among the residents of New York city, have any adequate conception of the size, the magnificence and the many wonderful features of the new station. The ground area of the structure is just a trifle short of 80 acres. Enclosed under the mammoth train shed are 33 miles of track. Nearly 1500 trains a day, carrying 250,000 passengers, will be able to arrive or depart from the station. One of the most impressive features of the station at first sight is the main concourse, measuring 275 feet in length, 120 feet in width and 125 feet in height.

The trackage in the station is on two levels, one exclusively for through trains and the other for suburban traffic. Each level is provided with a waiting room accommodating 5000 persons. Ticket offices, baggage offices, parcel rooms, information bureau and entrances and exits are so arranged as to facilitate the movements of passengers and avoid confusion. There are no stairways in the station. All approaches to the various levels are by means of ramps or inclined ways.

Outwardly the new terminal, in harmony with the requirements and demands of the times, does not resemble the ordinary railroad station. The central part of the facade is in the form of a triumphal arch and at once attracts attention. Over and about the steel frame terra cotta, marble and light stone complete the structure. Approaching the front entrance from Park avenue is a viaduct occupying the middle of the thoroughfare, and extending from Forty-second street to Fortieth, but high above the street level proper. This elevated street extends around each side of the terminal building, on the Depew avenue side to the east and Vanderbilt avenue on the west, continuing to the north end of the building.

POULTRY EXHIBITION FINANCIAL SUCCESS

For First Time in History of Southern Wisconsin Association Show Has Been Without a Deficit.

For the first time in its history the annual exhibition of the Southern Wisconsin Poultry Association has been a financial success. This fact concerning the 1913 poultry show was determined at a meeting of members of the association held last evening at the Ashcroft furniture store. The annual meeting had been called for that time but the cold weather made the attendance so light that it was decided to adjourn the meeting subject to the call of the president. The few members made a sufficient examination of the books of the association to disclose the fact that the fifth annual show not only paid for itself but left a small balance in the treasury.

In previous years the members have been obliged to make up deficits from money out of their own pockets but they now feel assured that the annual exhibition has acquired a standing and system of management that secure its financial success for the future.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)

After many years of bitter warfare between the Barnum and Forepaugh shows in eighteen hundred and eighty four a contract was signed for ten years between the great shows for a division of the country. This meant the Forepaugh show to take the eastern, northern and southern country one year and the Barnum to take the far west and vice versa each year.

In eighteen hundred and eighty seven after the Forepaugh show had opened at Philadelphia for two weeks they took the road to the eastern country. Some weeks later in the season we were billed to show in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, on a Monday which meant that we would arrive there on Sunday morning.

On Saturday the day before a small show, whose name I have forgotten, exhibited in Johnstown, a town of something like 25,000 or possibly more inhabitants, a large percentage of which were working men in the rolling mills and other iron industries in the town.

A strike of some magnitude had been going on there for some time and when this show undertook to show there on Saturday the guy ropes that held the main tents were cut, the rioters went under the canvass and fought their way into the tents and finally they got into a general fight with the employees and before they could be quieted two men belonging to the circus were killed.

They were not long in getting off the grounds and out of town and they said the show had only been gone two hours when our trains pulled in there Sunday morning. The mayor and chief of police were at the depot to meet Mr. Forepaugh and begged of him not to unload the show as the rioters had the best of them and they could not protect him.

But Mr. Forepaugh insisted that he must show there, that his expense to make the town would practically be the same whether he showed or not and that in all his experience in show business he had never billed a town in which he did not show if it was possible to get there. And after much planning and talking with the mayor and chief of police Mr. Forepaugh said to them, "Although the license I pay your city is large and should give me protection rather than to not show here if you will give me the privilege of protecting myself I will unload the show."

This they rapidly did and said, "You may resort to any means to protect your people and property, but we will not guarantee any protection or charge any license."

The show immediately unloaded and everything was taken out on the ground and as usual the menagerie and animal tents were put up, but on account of possible storms the big top, which means the seating capacity of the show was not put up until Monday morning.

Dan Taylor, the boss canvassman with his assistants soon got the menagerie top ready to raise, but the rioters had gathered in numbers and walked out onto the canvass and stood there. Mr. Taylor never found any fault till time to raise his canvass.

He then said to them, "Gentlemen you will please walk off the canvass as we wish to raise the top." They told him they would get off when they got ready, and there was nothing left for him to do but to see that they moved in a hurry.

He sent men with stakes with iron bands on them, and in a few minutes they were hauling the rioters in every direction for their homes and the hostiles. There were driven off of the grounds and guards were put out to see that they did not return. The fight had been so fast and furious that they did not care to return and it was hard for them to organize a band large enough to do us any harm.

The word soon spread in the town and the best people were in sympathy with the show, but guards had to be put on the grounds all night with arms ready to protect the show property.

The next afternoon the show opened with a line of guards well out from the canvass and everybody was compelled to come in single file to the show. We got through the next day gave two shows to crowded and the Adam Forepaugh show left the town with a good name as far as the better element of the city was concerned.

This was the only time that I ever saw when I was in the business where we had to put out men to guard the property all night, and this was undoubtedly due to the condition of the rioters and rioters at the time we showed there.

The following year we came west, but the next year Johnstown Pennsylvania was on our list, which was in 1889. Several weeks before we were to show here a terrible rain storm came which covered a considerable amount of that country and it was said that more water fell in six hours that ever was known before. Johnstown lay in a valley between two mountains and on one side was the Susquehanna River and for some miles above the town in the valley were large dams used as water power and the terrible rains had raised them to such an extent that they gave way before many of the people were warned and the awful flood struck them.

It was never known, but it was said that anywhere from five to ten thousand people met their death. This flood came on the last day of May, eighteen hundred and eighty nine, which was on a Saturday and the news which could be had from the flooded city was very meagre for some time.

We were showing far up in the state, and on account of the trouble that we had had two years before when the news came to us, Mr. Forepaugh said that there was certainly many a one in Johnstown that needed drowning. But when the extent of the terrible accident was known, Mr. Forepaugh was one of the first to send them money for relief, and as it was on our route he made up his mind to show there just as he had billed to, and gave a certain portion of the receipts to the relief fund.

This he did and when the doors opened in the afternoon, bankers, merchants and business men of the town had entire charge of the show. I was the only one around the front of the show that had to work that afternoon. I had to sell tickets but the business men of Johnstown took the tickets at the main entrance and the cash, and at Mr. Forepaugh's request, all widows and orphans were passed in free.

We did a big business both afternoon and night, as in the country for miles around had been advertised that a certain portion of the receipts would go to the relief fund, and railroad excursion people in for many miles around, a great many of them having two objects in view: one of seeing the show and the other to take a look at the once prosperous town practically in ruins.

The entire town was in mourning and many children attended the show who had lost both father and mother, and in many cases friends and neighbors had taken temporary charge of them. Adam Forepaugh gladdened the heart of many a little orphan that day, as he quietly placed a silver dollar in their tiny hands, a kindness that they never would forget.

One very old lady had four small children in charge, the father and mother, she said, took them to safety upon the mountain side and went back to try and save something from the home and were both caught in the floods.

Our lot was located on a flat just above which was the railroad bridge which crossed the river at that point and where it was said, from eight hundred to one thousand people gathered as a last resort only to be swept away in the flood. There were many people at the show that day that had changed their minds about Adam Forepaugh, who two years before had put up such a bitter fight to protect his property and who came to see the same men back there and giving a portion of the receipts and also a check that he had sent them some weeks before for the relief of the town.

There were hundreds of them gathered at the main entrance and insisted on seeing Adam Forepaugh and wishing him the best the world had to store for him.

This was the last time I was over in Johnstown and in the conditions which existed in the two years that we showed there, there was certainly a vast difference. The damage done to the city at that time was many millions of dollars, but the city has been rebuilt larger and finer than ever, and no one seems to entertain any fear that there will ever be a repetition of the awful flood again.

We certainly never cared to visit any town again under the conditions that we did Johnstown, Pennsylvania, either in eighteen hundred and eighty seven or eighteen hundred and eighty nine, for when I look back at the two dramas enacted in the two years, one full of fight and defiance of the law, and the other all humiliation and mourning, the difference was certainly great. And the incidents like this and many others that go to make up the gypsy life of one in the show business.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Recall Versus the Home.

Janesville, Wis., Feb. 1, 1913.

Editor the Gazette.

Sir: I am glad to read in your paper the outspoken and I think fair and just presentation of the whole subject of the recall. I think you put it right in boiling down the whole agitation to a question of decency against indecency, of law against lawlessness. In such a fight business men and honorable American citizens will without doubt be on the side of decent conduct and obedience to law. It would certainly give Janesville a nation-wide notoriety to be the first to recall its officials for doing their plain duty and honorably administering their trust according to their oath of office.

But there is more than business, more than official honor in this matter. There is the interest of the home, the safety of the boys and girls. I am reminded that the real reason of the change that has wrought such consternation in the ranks of the saloonists and their friends was the commission of a dastardly crime by two youths, and this murder and consequent conviction were all confessedly related to the saloon and the lawlessness of our city. With these facts in my mind I look over the names of the men who signed the petition for the recall and I wonder how many of them are fathers of youths and girls of the age of the ones so outraged and ruined for life. Is this matter not a question of the Recall versus the Home after all?

Our fellow citizens who want a wide-open town, unlimited saloons, with out regard to rules, where minors can drink and are invited to crime, where brothels are encouraged, and money flows freely from the pockets of the debauched, are forgetting that such a town is a deadly trap for the feet of their own boys and girls.

Now I want to put it, as one father to another, do you men who signed that petition want to vote for a man or commission of men who will open the gates of death for your children to enter? If you heard of a man coming to town with cholera, or yellow fever, or infantile paralysis, you would bar him out but this is worse. For the lawless saloon and brothel keeper make it their business to tempt your boy or girl. It is a question of money with them; they must make their business pay.

Will not every father and every citizen who loves young people in Janesville ask themselves this question, do I want a wide-open town where the death-trap of drink and vice is law without restriction for the feet of my boy or girl?

Yours truly,
"A FATHER OF BOY AND GIRLS."

"THE DIVORCE QUESTION"

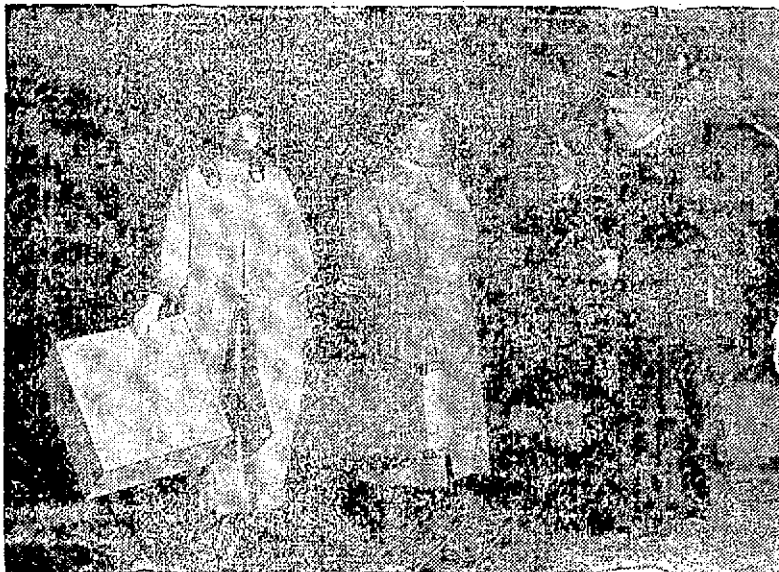

Rowland and Clifford will present "The Divorce Question" by William Anthony McGuire at Myers theatre for a special return engagement Saturday, Feb. 1, matinee and evening. The splendid success of this play at McVickers theatre in Chicago where 107 performances were given proves conclusively the merit of this attraction and moreover gives ample evidence that the public nowadays want a serious play—one that will benefit them educationally and will give the moral code of the public an opportunity to reflect on the evil of divorce and its attendant misery.

THE PEOPLE KNOW That Pe-ru-na Is a Good Catarrh Remedy

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.
Columbus, Ohio.

A man may have tried a drug and found it efficacious. Or his neighbor may have tried the drug and found it efficacious. Upon such experience he can base something like certainty. Acting upon this he can make himself absolutely certain.

For instance, suppose I have catarrh. I take a remedy. I rapidly improve. I finally get well. Now, there is a certainty here which I can believe. The certainty that the remedy cured my catarrh. To be sure, it may not cure every other case of catarrh, but the probabilities are strong that it will. I have in my files thousands of letters where people have been cured of catarrh by taking Pe-ru-na. I could not prove by the books that Pe-ru-na will cure catarrh. I could not prove it by the medical profession. I could not prove it by reason. But I can prove it by experience. By the experience of the masses of the people.

People Say Pe-ru-na Cures Them. People who can have no possible interest in Pe-ru-na further than the good they have received from it. Such people write me these letters without any solicitation on my part.

without any pay, direct or indirect, to tell me the benefit that Pe-ru-na has been to them.

To me this is better evidence than as if all the medical books in the world agreed that Pe-ru-na was the best catarrh remedy ever invented. It is better evidence to me than as if all the doctors in the world would join in declaring Pe-ru-na to be the best remedy in the world for catarrh. The experience of the people is the best kind of evidence.

Neither reason, nor book learning nor the schools could furnish data so complete, so satisfactory as the experience of the masses.

Not only does Pe-ru-na cure chronic catarrh, but for coughs and colds and winter diseases, for grip and laryngitis and the various derangements of the respiratory organs to which every one is subject, I can confidently say Pe-ru-na is an excellent remedy. Why? Because I find it in the books? Because the medical profession say so? Because I have reasoned it out? Nothing of the sort. Because I have tried it thousands and thousands of times and it works.

Are You Looking for a Catarrh Remedy?

Now then, you may be hunting for a catarrh remedy yourself. You may have searched in vain in the books to find one. You may have inquired and tried to find one through the medical profession. You may have futilely attempted to reason it out for yourself.

You have just one more chance to work out your problem. That is experience. If your experiences are not sufficient, take the experience of your neighbor. Your neighbor has been cured by Pe-ru-na. There is not a village or town, hamlet or city that does not contain one or many people who have recovered while taking Pe-ru-na.

If you want to become one of this multitude just get a bottle and try it. You can find it in any drug store. The directions are on the bottle. If you want to make doubly sure, write me. I will send you some literature and perhaps some personal advice. Address S. B. Hartman, M. D. Columbus, Ohio.

DINNER STORIES

R. T. Lingley, a New York real estate man who lives in the suburb of Park Hill, was moving from one street to another where he had just built a new house. Observing with dismay the carefree way in which the moving crew yanked his cherished antiques about, Lingley was filled with a desire to save from possible damage a tall grandfather's clock that he prized highly and that was reliably reported to be more than a hundred years old.

Taking the clock up in his arms he started for the new house. But the clock was as tall as its owner, and heavy besides, and its doors kept swinging open, so that he had to put it down every few feet and rest his arms and mop his streaming brow. Then he would clutch his burden to his heaving bosom and stagger on again.

Before Lingley had gone a block he had repeated this operation a dozen times and was panting from exhaustion. Every time he put the clock down he would gaze into its round impassive face and curse it for weighing so much and for being so unwieldy.

After an hour of these strenuous exertions he was nearing his destination when an intoxicated laborer, who had been watching his labors from the opposite side of the road took advantage of a halt to halt him.

"Mister," he said thickly, "could I ash you a question?"

"What is it?" demanded Lingley.

"Why in thunder don't you carry a watch?"

The walking craze a few years ago gave a well-known English sporting man an opportunity which he could not resist taking advantage of. He had handbills widely distributed on which stated:

"A Great Crosby gentleman will give $50 to the man, woman or child who first succeeds in doing the following task: To walk from the Pier-head (Liverpool) to Crosby village. There each competitor must buy a meat pie and a walk around 'the Big Stone' and eat it."

About a hundred entries were received and the walk took place on Whit Monday. Much excitement prevailed, and a great cheer rose as a local pedestrian was seen leading the rest of the crowd. His meat pie was soon eaten as he walked round the stone and he went to the judge for the $50.

"Why," exclaimed the judge, "I didn't think you could have done it. The stone seemed too hard to eat."

"What that's got to do with it," asked the ped.

"Everything to do with it," answered the judge, "and nobody gets the $50 till they do."

Medals of Honor Given To Over 1,600 Soldiers

It has never been generally known to the people of the United States that the greatest honor which our government can bestow upon its soldiers and sailors, but one which carries with it no pension or other emolument, was first conferred for conspicuous gallantry during the Civil war, by an act of Congress passed March 3, 1863.

The Congressional Medal of Honor is to our country's defenders what the Iron Cross of Germany, the Victoria Cross of England, or the Cross of the Legion of Honor of France, are to those countries, the highest reward of the highest and most self-sacrificing heroism, but much harder to win. Every wearer of it, according to a rule established by President McKinley, "must have performed an act of such a conspicuous character as to clearly distinguish the man for gallantry and intrepidity above his comrades—service that involved extreme jeopardy of life, or the performance of extraordinary hazardous duty."

Soldiers of the union have displayed bravery in battle, else victories could not have been gained, but as courage and self-sacrifice are the characteristics of every true soldier, such a badge as the Congressional Medal of Honor is not to be expected as the reward of conduct that does not clearly distinguish the soldier above men whose bravery and gallantry have been proved in battle.

The first of these medals were issued by Secretary Stanton March 25, 1863, to six of the twenty-two enlisted men who, by direction of Gen. Mitchell, penetrated the enemy's territory in Georgia and after capturing at Big Shanty, now Resaca, a locomotive and four empty box cars attached thereto ran away with the train guarded at the station by a brigade of confederate infantry hoping to destroy the enemy's lines of communication south of Chattanooga.

The total number of medals issued to date is about 1,600, including nearly 500 of regular army men who distinguished themselves in Indian combats. The number of medals of honor given by states, follows:

Connecticut, 24; Delaware, 7; Illinois, 90; Indiana, 44; Iowa, 28; Kansas, 1; Kentucky, 5; Louisiana, 3; Maine, 15; Maryland, 15; Massachusetts, 63; Michigan, 51; Minnesota, 15; Missouri, 29; Nebraska, 1; New Hampshire, 20; New Jersey, 29; New York, 236; Ohio, 127; Pennsylvania, 152; Rhode Island, 15; Tennessee, 2; Vermont, 42; Virginia, 6; West Virginia, 28; Wisconsin, 11; United States Colored Troops, 27; Veteran Reserve Corps, 30; sharpshooters, 3; general and staff officers of volunteers, 27.

Under the act of congress approved March 3, 1863, providing for a medal of honor to be given in the name of congress for most distinguished acts of gallantry in action, the medal, hastily prepared—was defective in artistic design and execution; it was also found that the Grand Army of the Republic organization had adopted a close imitation, making the medal of honor misleading.

Consequently under the act of congress, approved April 23, 1904, a Medal of Honor of new design was issued to replace the old one. The new medal is made of silver, heavily electroplated in gold; the chief feature of the old medal, the five-pointed star, has been retained, and in the center appears the head of the heroic Minerva, the highest symbol of wisdom and righteousness war. Surrounding this central figure in circular form, are the words, "United States of America," representing nationality. An open laurel wreath encircles the star, and the oak leaves at the base of the prongs of the star are likewise encircled in green to give them prominence. The medal is suspended by a blue silk ribbon, spangled with thirteen white stars representing the original states, and this ribbon is attached to an eagle supported upon a horizontal bar. Upon the bar, which is attached to two points of the star, appears the word "Valor," indicative of the distinguished service represented by the medal. The reverse side of the medal is engraved with the name of the person honored, and the place and date of the service for which it was awarded. It was worn suspended from the neck.

A curious feature of the roll of medal of honor men is revealed when it is studied. It is that 96 per cent of the most striking exhibitions of heroism were given by "the behind the gun." Simply severe as the medal of honor is, it is never worn except at military functions. The heroes who have achieved deeds that stir the blood of the most pugnacious nature to the history of our country, are distinguished in every-day life by modest buttons of red, white and blue, worn unostentatiously in the button-hole.

In Wisconsin as elsewhere, time has thickened the ranks of the nation's defenders, and now those who by deeds of valor and merit received the Congressional Medal of Honor for services rendered the United States are very few in numbers, and rapidly lessening. Thousands who gloriously fell in defending the flag they loved better than life, earned the coveted distinction, but congress, cruel though it may seem, only recognized the heroes who lived.

The letter after the name indicates the company to which the soldier belonged.

WORK ON HIGHWAYS FOR JAIL INMATES

Is Plan Favored by Beloit Supervisor As Solution to Problem of County Prisoners.

"The best solution to the question of what to do with the prisoners at the county jail, is to put them at work improving the county roads," according to Supervisor W. A. Rossow of Beloit, member of the special committee named at the last session of the county board to investigate the matter of employing the inmates of the county jail. Supervisor J. A. Darning of this city who introduced the resolution authorizing the investigation of the matter, is chairman of the committee. R. K. Overton of the town of La Prairie is the other member of the committee.

"In late years," says Supervisor Rossow, expense to the county caring for the prisoners has become frightfully heavy and some solution must be made whereby the expense account can be lessened.

"In the past prisoners have been hired out to the city of Janesville but this has caused much dissatisfaction and as a result the county board has a big puzzle to solve, regarding the employment of the men, while they are supposed to be working out a fine at the county jail.

"The much spoken of rock pile is out of the question because the stone crushers are utilized for this purpose, the wood sawing stunt of the past is out of the question and the only reasonable suggestion offered to the puzzle is to have the men do the county road work.

"While the prisoners are doing this the money earned by the married men above their living expenses should be given their families, as in a big majority of cases where a man is sent up for drunkenness the county must support the family anyway. The question is one of much interest, not only in Rock county, but in many other counties throughout the country and every suggestion that can be offered to the county board will be given careful consideration."

Popularity Backed by Evidence

We have delivered over 15,000 Overlands in the past five months. This is double the business of any other manufacturer producing a similar car. We could have delivered many more had we been able to produce them.

The Overland is outselling its competitors merely because it outclasses them in every single particular. Naturally most people buy where they get the most car for the least money.

The greatest difference in popular priced cars is the difference in price. And this difference is due to the difference in factory and facilities.

We do not only claim to be more conscientious builders, but we are more economical. It is merely the Overland method—a 95 per cent. efficient factory system making 40,000 cars yearly.

The Overland costs 30% less than any other similar car made.

In ten years the world's automobile production increased 8,000 per cent.

But in six years Overland sales have increased nearly 10,000 per cent. This phenomenal popularity is the greatest proof in the world that in the Overland you get more car for less money than any other manufacturer can give.

For example—study the specifications given below.

The 1913 sales of Overland cars are already double those of any other manufacturer producing a similar car. And still we are unable to supply the demand. We have beaten our record for the corresponding months last year by over 300 per cent.

If we can beat all the others in sales, surely we must in value. Investigate.

Our sales department records show that to date 65 per cent. of all Overland cars have been bought by farmers. Residents of the rural districts have, therefore, either bought or contracted for 65,000 Overlands.

Remember that the farmer is accustomed to buying machinery; he knows when a car is right. He has found the Overland a powerful, sturdy and dependable car, and what is more he realizes that the purchase of an Overland gives him more car for less money. Think that over.

There is over $3,000,000.00 worth of the most modern automatic machinery in Overland factories. Such equipment as this makes it possible for us to make the average $1200 car for $985. We have one department which does nothing but take out and sell machines replaced by more improved ones. Let this simple arithmetic sink in: The installation of new machinery costing $100,000 means $20 per car to a maker of 5000 cars; to us it means but $2.50. Think that over and you will realize why the car, described below, is possible.

The Overland factories possess the largest drop forge plant in connection with the industry. This means that we depend on no outside source for our drop forgings.

When a certain construction needs a drop forging we can go ahead and make it—at minimum cost. Parts which cost others $9 each, we make for $3.

Thus you can see why we can do what others cannot do. The value described below is the result.

To make enough Overlands to supply the present demand, 8,000 skilled mechanics are working night and day, in our great plants which cover over 94 acres.

And this enormous Overland business of 40,000 cars grew from an output of but 400 cars in 1908.

Would our growth have been the biggest if our value was not the greatest?

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

Two Sisters

THEY are two sisters, and so far as features and form go, they resemble each other closely. Both have blue eyes, similar in shape. Both have good straight noses, well shaped lips, a pleasing contour of the face, good, healthy complexions, gray hair—for they are not young. Both are large women, verging somewhat toward stoutness.

But though in all these physical matters, they resemble each other, and one would think, therefore, they would look alike, they really have no resemblance to each other. And this is because the spirit in each is so different. And the spirit shines through the body, and so one sees in each sister a very different person.

One sister has made the most of herself in every way. Everything about her is expressive of the beautiful, as near as she can reach it. Her voice is soft and sweet and wondrously expressive of emotion. Her face is gracious and lovely, the curves of her lips are kindly, her glance expresses love, interest, goodwill. Though her body is large, her movements are easy, light, graceful. You feel she controls her body, and that it is not going to get away from her in any way that she does not wish it to.

The other sister has given no attention to these things. She expresses ungraciousness, unloveliness. Her voice is harsh, hard, uncultured. Her glance is critical, suspicious. Her lips give you the feeling of lack of self-control. They are "loose." Her figure sags; and you know that with the coming of the years, she is going to get unpleasantly stout. Her step is heavy. A totally different woman looks at you from this body from that which looks at you from the other. And yet, when you analyze the two outwardly, hair, eyes and features are the same.

It shows, does it not, that we can make ourselves beautiful and gracious and lovely if we will? If we will let our spirit develop freely in all ways that are beautiful, this mere physical body of ours will become transmuted by the light within.

So those of us who have not the beauty of features or form that we long for need not conclude despairingly that we must belong, altogether and always, to the unlovely ones of the earth. If we will let the spirit within us reach out toward beauty, and develop in all ways that are beautiful, we will acquire charm and loveliness far surpassing that of mere physical beauty.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

SOME INTERESTING LETTERS.

THE QUESTION as to whether it is better to spank or not to spank is still on the carpet. Anyone not interested will please read some other part of the paper.

"I have never been a spanker," says a correspondent who signs himself "A young bachelor," "but in my juvenile days was frequently a spankee. I do not believe in spanking, or other forms of corporal punishment, unless the child is afflicted with pure cussedness." In my opinion the parent who administers punishments which cause pain is long on muscular strength, and short on mental ability. He (or she) finds it easier to give the child a wallop than to logically explain to the child wherein it is wrong. It was a vigorous "thrashing" given me by my father, that impelled me to run away from home when I was fifteen years of age. (But I kept my mother posted as to my whereabouts.) It was corporal punishment that first made me feel the need of proficiency in my vocabulary. My mother in all her life never did anything that could cause physical pain, and she was always gentle in her reproofs and admonitions. I know you will believe me when I say that it always pleased me to please her. You may be sure that with the normal child moral persuasion is more effective than the rod, the whip, the switch—or the spanking. Don't spank, or whip, or flag your children, unless you are willing to admit that they have inherited nasty tempers and vicious dispositions.

Here is the other side of the case, expressed by a woman:

"It seems to me that the modern method of bringing up children will be responsible for a national calamity. I believe in corporal punishment, a punishment which they understand, which is soon over, and always comes when promised and of course suited to the age of a child. A little slap on the hand which persists in dropping toys, a smart tinging on the legs which run away, etc., are far less harmful than shutting up a child, depriving him of privileges, etc., which I know so often lead to deceitfulness, or an attack of 'nerves.' I am also sure that six months is not too early for a child to mind when properly instructed."

And here's a valuable letter from a woman who not only tells us what not to do, but what to do:

"I can't understand how a mother can strike, or beat, a little tender morsel of her own flesh and blood. It would be an impossibility for me to do that. Yet do not think for a moment I undervalue the necessity for discipline—my girl of twelve has been made to mind from the time, as you so aptly put it, she was old enough to throw her toys down for the pleasure of having them brought back to her. Hers were given back to her ONCE. She learned. Indeed, I have not a friend who has not criticized me for being overly strict with her. BUT she is a child for whom one 'no' suffices, and all my friends are glad to have her visit them. She has never been spanked, not even had the little fingers slapped, yet I have required implicit obedience from babyhood. It has required a great deal of thought, much patience, unflinching love, but is that any more than their due? She is no 'angel child,' she has a strong will, but I always determine that mine shall be a bit the stronger. I strive hard to impress upon her that the wrong does not consist in doing what I tell her not to do, but in doing the thing that is not right—that I do not punish her because she has disobeyed me, but because she has done wrong, and she must obey only because of my superiority in age and experience that enables me to judge better than she what constitutes right. I try to have her reason those things for herself, to show her where every wrong act has an evil result.

"We have great discussions on these subjects. My friends say, 'Oh it is in the child,' but I will claim the credit for my system, for she is only a normal, healthy, strong-willed, naturally obstinate girl, and I know her good behavior is the direct result of the way her mind has been trained from birth."

Both in these letters and the others that I received, the anti-spanker certainly has the day, in numbers at least.

Fads and Fashion

New York, Jan. 31.—It cannot escape the notice even of the most casual observer that Oriental colors and designs abound in all the newest fabrics displayed in the shops at the present time. East Indian prints are used on both silk and cotton; embroidery in Turkish patterns decorate lingerie frocks of cotton crepe; the Moorish arch, a lattice work forming a rounded arch wider at top than at bottom, is a novel and popular design in embroidery.

Oriental gauze, hand-printed in the heavy rich colors of the Levant, and bordered in metals, is a charming material shown for evening wear. Japanese crepe and Japanese silks of wonderful richness are both much in evidence, and Oriental sashes and scarfs, whose colors contrast brightly with the duller and darker western materials with which they are used, are seen on everything from evening dresses to bathing suits.

Crepe of various kinds is to be especially popular in the coming season for washable dresses and waists. A kind of cotton crepe that probably will be among the most popular is checked with lines in rattle yarns. The crepe white checked with white, shows a colored border of silk, small flowers, done in rather coarse and heavy cotton. The border is utilized for the edge of the skirt and for collars, cuffs and other touches on the waist.

Another new wash material is harmonized, a woven pattern cotton fabric made either plain or with small embroidered design. The plaids are very fine and the material has, therefore, a crepe-like surface.

Broadened cotton velours is a washable material which makes the lingerie dress more gorgeous than ever. It is of beautiful velvety texture and is said to launder satisfactorily. A velvet-striped cotton crepe, the crepe white, the velvet stripe in color, is another novelty, for the velvet is made of mercerized cotton in wonderful imitation of silk velvet.

One of the most interesting of the new materials is "chat mouille," or wet cat. This is a light-weight silk plush light enough for summer evening wraps. It is made in changeable colors of great beauty—one especially interesting combination being of golden brown and a dull, soft blue. Its rather sleek appearance doubtless suggested its name. Lined with chiffon, it makes an ideal evening wrap for wear during the warm summer season.

Onduline another fabric, which bids fair to find favor for Spring wear, is a soft satin whose undulated surface suggests the silk rears of which it is an outgrowth.

The coming season is to be one full of color. Almost all of the new lingerie frocks and houses show touches of some vivid green, red, yellow or

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Kindly tell how to make a round face thin. (2)—Also tell a girl in her teens how to fix her hair so it will become the face mentioned. ANXIOUS.

The only way to do that is to get thin all over.

It will help to part your hair, at side or in the middle, as most becoming, let it loosely frame your face covering the ears and draw it into a low knot at the back of the head.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me, through your column, what I shall do. I am keeping house for a widower and he wants me to marry him and he keeps at me all the time. I don't like him well enough to marry him; he is not to be trusted. I have been here about three months. I would like to hear from you and have you give me some advice. I don't think my life would be happy. He is 35 years older than I am. I am anxious to know. LINA.

Get another job.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am keeping house for a widower. I have been there about three months and he wants me to marry him. Now, what will I do? He has a good home and is a member of the Grand Army. I don't feel disposed to marry right away, but he wants me to. Of course, I need a home. I am not very strong and have to have a doctor a great deal. Now, what would you advise me to do. He has no bad habits, but he is 65 years old. What would you advise me to do? PEARL.

I might say the same to you as to "Lina." However, if he is a good man and you are at all fond of him, why don't you marry him?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young fellow—been married a few years. My wife is very troublesome, quarrelsome and rheumatic. What can I do? She quarrels with me if I don't take her some place or furnish a way to go every day. She also talks of leaving me. We have a colored china buttons are much used to give the necessary dash of color to lingerie waists. These buttons in white, with rim or center of some bright color, are often sewed on with black or colored thread, to produce a three-tone effect. For example, on a blouse made of white crepe, embroidered in black and red, black and red buttons would be sewed with red thread or red and white buttons would be sewed on with black thread.

Metal in the form of beads, gold and silver embroidery, cloth of gold and silver and metallic lace is much used in gold and silver threads above and below the roses. The lace, made of gold or silver tissue, meshes woven of gold or silver threads and strings of beads are so heavy with gold and silver lace and beads of various sorts that they just escape being burdensome.

Colored cotton tassels are much used on lingerie blouses and dresses. They appear at wrist or elbow cuffs, on the points and corners of flat and turned down collars and wherever there is a chance to fasten one in order to introduce a bit of color. Fancy braiding, and there are very beautiful tinsel braids that are used for collar and cuffs, and for trimming waists with little bands broken in military fashion. One must not use a profusion of tinsel, but a little is extremely good.

The shorter the sleeves of separate waists, the more trimmed they are, as a rule. It is only the long sleeves that are plainly tailored. The little puff sleeves of fine lace is worn over the full elbow sleeve. The new dress suits for girls have the bellows or three inches below the waist line. To very slender, tall girls they are most becoming. Leather ornaments for the girdles of gowns are printed in Bulgarian designs and colorings, and have silver ball buttons to finish them.

FOOD AND PHYSICAL APPEARANCE.

"What one eats has a great influence upon the appearance," says Dr. Eleanor Rogers, in the Ladies' World. The resemblance that one often sees in members of the same family depends largely upon the fact that they are surrounded by the same conditions and eat and drink the same things. It is often remarked that husband and wife after a time come to look like each other. Resemblance is determined chiefly by heredity, but we grow to be like what we admire—a principle of vital importance in heredity. The pattern for renewal of the body every few years is born with it, but the mental condition of the individual materially modifies this, imperceptibly but constantly. Mutual faith and admiration tend to bring about a resemblance, especially in close companions. Yet it is true that the material, the food of which the body is built, must largely determine one's looks, as Dr. Rogers mentions, and that character is determined to some extent by the physical character of the food, as we judge of character largely by physical conditions.

What a lesson in that sentence! And that servant remained in this home for years.

When a new servant comes into the home, it does not take her long to discover whether there is system and order there or whether things are run in a haphazard get-along-as-you-can, go-as-you-please fashion. Let us suppose you do know how to cook a good simple meal; that you do know how to sweep, dust and make the beds and something of cleanliness and sanitation. And you have learned to like to do the things you hate to do. The new servant arrives. She will soon catch the same spirit. The interest and joy you put into your home is going to be reflected in her, providing you have made every effort to secure a bright, wholesome girl with brains and common sense, and not a mean, self-centered, nervous, "low, degenerate," and must be got through in some way. In every family there should be division of work. No one servant, nor one mother can do it all and keep her health or good nature, or both. Divide it as you see fit according to your family and standards of living. Some families require more than others but be sure that every one but father is doing his share in the home. If this be true, don't worry about father, he will fairly run to his work, sticking to it all day with a song in his heart for he will know there will be the best place in the house for him to rest when he returns tired at night. Change the work frequently; then all cannot only learn with the mother's supervision, but there will be no chance for monotony; and be sure both boys and girls, if there are any, learn the joy of being a part of the home instead of simply boarding in it.

Comedienne when they are young for this responsibility. "How young," did you say? When they begin to walk and talk they can take care of their playthings, and from that time on little by little may be given them to do, and if mother is buck of all this and she is interested in doing things she will have good helpers in the home, and, yes, they will love her more, for they will have opportunities of knowing each other better. It makes housekeeping a pleasure when each member has some part in it. And right here, if you wish to know, the mother is not having an easy time to see all do their work, and do it well. It is much easier to say, "Run along, I'll do it; it is so much easier than to teach you how, and besides, you make so much mess."

That is the cowardly mother, and too many are ready to say, "I can do it easier than tell you how." Each family should have its own schedule to work from, as the hours of rising, meals and manner of living are its own and not those of the neighbors. So it would be very presuming to tell my mistress of a home what hour she would have breakfast or dinner, or that she should wash on Monday, iron on Tuesday and mend on Wednesday. But I do ask that all write out the schedule of work best suited to that home and post it in the kitchen. Then if there are one or more helpers in that home write out their work for them and this is to be posted each week in their respective rooms. This means a great deal more if written than simply told, besides much less to carry on one's mind. Discuss with each other the rearrangement of furniture decorations, wall paper, floor coverings, harmony of color, easy methods, labor-saving devices, in fact, make it a home with a real community life, and you can't drive the family away from it. Fathers would be anxious to come home rather than make excuses to stay down town.

With the exception of special seasons, when papering and unusual changes are made, there need be no "bugbear" of house cleaning. With system, reasonable regularity of work and with united effort the house is always clean and orderly. More important to the physical well being of the family than all else is the planning of meals and marketing for the same. This requires thought, and study on the part of the mistress of the home and is a study which has been little understood up to the present time. Now many are realizing that the human body is the most wonderful structure in the world, and as such should receive more thought and attention as to what goes into it, in order to build well for the present and the future.

Buckwheat Pancakes—These can be made ready to prepare, buckwheat pancake flour to be obtained at the grocer's simply follow directions on the package.

Old-fashioned buckwheats may be made as follows: One cake yeast in half cup lukewarm water. Soak half hour. One quart lukewarm water, one cup cornmeal, pinch of salt; first add cornmeal, then stir in the plain buckwheat (not the prepared). Stir in until pretty thick, then add yeast and pin in it to hold in position. Place set in warm place until morning, where you are bothered with mice.

Lay a small piece of cheese in funnel. This never fails and there is no danger of spring trap. I have tried this for years with success.

Things Worth Knowing.
A friend told me that the Mexicans were especially noted for the fine flavor of their cocoa and that it was owing to the fact that when it is being made they stir it by rolling two slender carved sticks together in their hands. I had never carved sticks, but we are very fond of cocoa, so I tried the Dover egg beater, and find the cocoa is certainly improved.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

THE final issue standeth sure. When right and wrong in conflict meet. Who fight for right may be laid low, But right knows no defeat.

MEALS FOR A WINTER DAY.

To begin with breakfast, the meal which is often the bugbear of the cook, let it be simple, but satisfying enough to last the individual until the noonday meal. Whole wheat, which has been washed, soaked over night, and then cooked until well broken by slow heat in a fireless cooker or double boiler, is an ideal breakfast dish, with thin cream. This is a dish especially good for growing children and men who work hard at manual labor.

Buckwheat griddle cakes are most appetizing when well made, and may always be ready for every breakfast if they are prepared the day before. Take a yeast cake dissolved in water, a pint of warm water is sufficient; add a little salt and enough buckwheat flour to make a rather thick batter. Beat well and set away until night, then bring out and leave in a warm place to rise. In the morning reserve a cupful of this mixture to set again as a starter for the next morning's cakes. To the batter to be used, add a very little sour milk and a small amount of soda dissolved in a little boiling water. Beat well and cook at once on a smoking hot griddle. The cakes should be turned as soon as the last one is placed, be crisp and brown and served unspiced, as piling them makes any good cake soggy. Buckwheat cakes made in this way are entirely wholesome, and may be eaten every morning, during cold weather.

A bit of sausage or bacon, fried crisp and brown, served with these cakes, a cup of good coffee and a doughnut or piece of coffee cake will make a good, substantial meal, which will stay by until the next is needed.

A good beginning for breakfast is fruit. Grape fruit. Grape fruit has been reasonable in price this winter, and plentiful. A half of a grape fruit, which has been prepared for eating the evening before and sprinkled with sugar, then chilled, is always tempting to the most jaded appetite.

A slice of ham and a few fried potatoes with toast, will make a good breakfast. One likes a change, as too much sameness grows monotonous.

Twining Plants.
One of the peculiarities to be noticed in connection with the twining of plants is the fact that with very few exceptions all the individuals of one species always twine in the same direction. Most plants twine in the opposite course to the movement of the sun or the hands of a watch. Such twiners are the morning glory, wistaria, wax plant, trumpet creeper and many others. Among those which twine in the opposite direction the hop and wild bindweed, or climbing polygonum, are familiar examples. Harper's Weekly.

Municipal Affairs Of Vital Interest

MUST PAY FOR LODGING AT MUNICIPAL HOTEL

Denver, Colo.—Denver's new municipal hotel opened with the New Year. Fifty tickets were given out and forty-six lodgers registered at the hotel last night. Four ticket holders, after inspecting the cleanliness of the place, refused to take advantage of the city's hospitality. "We do not think it would be right for us to sleep in such a clean place until we have negotiated a bath and a fumigation. We will be back tomorrow evening." The hotel occupies the two upper floors at 1307 Larimer, formerly known as the Stewart house. There are 24 rooms, with two to five cots in each, a total capacity of 105. A handsome reward will be paid for every speck of dirt found on the premises. It is a real spotless place in a real spotless town. The lodgers at the city hotel must submit to a bath and a thorough fumigation of his clothing. In the morning he receives a pair of brand new socks and a ticket for breakfast. After breakfast he is expected to labor three hours, either in doing porter work at the hotel or in sawing wood at the municipal wood and coal yard. He then receives two more meal tickets, good at any one of several 10-cent restaurants.—Municipal Journal.

AIR LIFT WATER SYSTEM IS PROUNOUNCED SUCCESS

The trial air lift system recently installed at one of the wells at the water works plant on West Rees street was given its initial test at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, and judging from the results, is distinctly a success. With only forty pounds air pressure, the well operated by the new apparatus pumped water at a rate of well over a million gallons a day, whereas the old pumps would not raise more than 750,000 gallons a day. It also appears that the new apparatus will reduce the cost of raising the water to approximately three tenths of a cent per thousand gallons. Under the old pump system it cost 2.5 cents to raise a thousand gallons to bring the water into the reservoir. City Engineer C. L. Hilles of Marinette and C. R. Langstaff, chairman of the citizens' water committee of that city, visited the plant on an inspection tour this afternoon and witnessed the trial of the air lift system. Marinette is considering purchasing its own water works plant and the two residents of that city are making investigations of other municipal plants.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

MOTOR DRIVEN APPARATUS FOUND MOST ECONOMICAL

Chief I. T. Kirby of the Marshalltown, Iowa, fire department, has submitted to his city government a report comparing the cost and efficiency of a motor hose and chemical wagon with the horse drawn vehicle which it replaced. Chief Kirby in his report shows that during the period from April 1 to Dec. 1, 1912, there were sixty-nine alarms. Comparing the cost of maintenance during the eight months of the previous year, Chief Kirby presents the following figures:

Cost of maintaining team eight months, including feed, shoeing, harness and veterinary service, $331.35.
Cost of maintaining automobile, eight months, including gas, oil, pressure, light and repairs, $25.17.
Cost of maintaining automobile, per month, $2.09.
Cost of maintaining team, per fire, $4.50.
Cost of maintaining automobile, per fire, 80 cents.
Balance in favor of automobile, per fire, $4.44.
Balance in favor of automobile, per month, $39.33.
Balance in favor of automobile, per year, $471.96.
It will be seen that the cost per fire for the upkeep of the motor driven truck was but 80 cents. The cost of upkeep of the automobile per month was less than the average cost for maintenance of a team per single fire.

FOND DU LAC INSTALLING SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

Fond du Lac is installing a new sewage disposal plant, costing approximately $50,000 on the site of the old septic plant, this figure including a new sewer system on the west side. The city proposes to install the celebrated Imhoff tanks, which chemically filter and treat the sewage before it is pumped out into the river. With the Imhoff tanks the sewage will be treated in such a manner as to kill all germs and send it into the river pure. After being thoroughly treated in the Imhoff tanks, the sewage is subjected to a hypochlorite of lime treatment which kills any germ life and purifies it. All danger from typhoid fever is eliminated by the hypochlorite treatment. In order to get the proper mixture of hypochlorite in the sewer, the city will employ an expert chemist for several months to make frequent tests. The hypochlorite of lime treatment is used in cities where drinking water is pumped from the lake. It does not kill animal life in the lake, but effectively destroys germ life.

PLAN TO BUILD CONCRETE BOULEVARD BETWEEN CITIES

If the plans of the Sheboygan Auto club materialize, a handsome $18,000 concrete boulevard may be built between that city and Sheboygan Falls along the lower road. Already members of the club have pledged a total of $6,000 toward the proposition. Three men have each pledged $1,000, another $500 and others varying sums. The proposal is to invoke the state aid law, the club furnishing the one third of the total sum usually voted by a local district and then, under the law, the county and state will appropriate each a like sum. The lower road is considered one of the finest stretches of scenery in that part of the country and is a favorite avenue for automobiles.

FREEDOM INCREASE NUMBER OF CITY WARDS TO FIVE

Freeport, Ill.—At an adjourned session of the city council Saturday night, that body, without a dissenting vote, redistricted the city of Freeport. There will now be five wards instead of three, and each will be represented in the city council by three aldermen, making fifteen instead of nine, as is now the case.

It was also decided to place three separate questions on the Sunday amusement ballot, to allow those favoring one kind of amusement, but being opposed to another, to express their choice intelligently. Questions of vaudeville houses and theatres, moving picture parlors and pool rooms, will each be voted on separately.

DRASTIC ANTIVIOLETT LAW PROPOSED IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul.—Drastic regulation of "red light districts" and punishment for conducting disorderly houses, is proposed in a bill which occupied the time of the senate committee on penal institutions and crimes. Under the bill, owners of buildings who rent them to persons for immoral uses are subject to having the buildings closed for a full year from the date of conviction. The bill proposes making it impossible for immoral women to rent cheap "hotels" or rooming houses, and it places the burden of prevention on the property owner.

GREEN BAY OPEN AIR SCHOOL GREAT SUCCESS

The open air school at Green Bay has just been declared an unqualified success and, although run in the past by the club women of the city, has now been taken over by the public school system and made a regular part of that system. The annual report of the school says that the children enrolled in it have grown healthier and stronger from month to month, so much as to be marvelous.

NUMEROUS REQUESTS MADE OF LAND FOR PLAYGROUNDS

The fact that in 41 cities land has been voluntarily donated for playground purposes indicates that the generous American philanthropist, whose gifts and legacies have richly endowed other branches of educational work, is beginning to appreciate the timely, large opportunities for promoting future citizenship through modern recreation. There are dividend-yielding social investments in which both the critics and admirers of such men as Carnegie and Rockefeller may use some of their own social surplus in helping the Playground and Recreation Association of America to bring "life more abundant" to the children and youth of America.

"CLEAN CHICAGO" CLUBS FORMED AMONG CHILDREN

The Chicago health department has started its work for the organization of "clean Chicago" clubs for 1913 among boys and girls. The work launched last year is to be continued. The department announces that buttons are ready for distribution and the printer's matter is in the hands of the printers. It suggests that the clubs be limited to twenty-five members for more effective neighborhood work. It is also recommended that boys and girls get the consent of the parents before joining. Parents are asked to co-operate.

ENFORCE SMOKE ORDINANCE ENACTED AT ROCKFORD

The street railway company management was cited into police court this forenoon on the charge of maintaining a smoke nuisance. The company put up no fight, accepted a nominal fine and agreed to abate the nuisance. The car barn on Kishwaukee street was the offender and the neighbors were up in arms about the situation. The company will try out a different brand of coal at the barn.—Register Gazette, Jan. 25.

BLOODHOUNDS ARE PURCHASED

After giving demonstrations nearly every day this week of their thorough efficiency as man hunters, the brace of bloodhounds brought here by Detective Ora L. Hinton of St. Mary's, O., has been purchased by the Beloit police department, and will henceforth be regular members of the local force. The price paid for the two dogs was $500.—Beloit Free Press.

SHEBOYGAN MAY BUILD NEW CONCRETE BREAKWATER

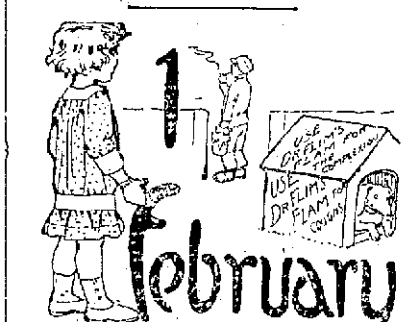

City Engineer Foley is making plans for a concrete breakwater that may be built to protect the North Point properties from the lake storms. The plans are not very definite as it is first desired to see what will be the changes in the wave action following the completion of the proposed new arrow-head government breakwater off the local harbor.—Sheboygan Journal.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher Copyright, 1902, by George Mather Adams BY WALT MASON

The birdman who is cleaving the higher atmosphere, among the planets weaving, who laughs when death is near; the sailor, all undaunted, who sails the stormy seas, by grim disaster haunted—good sports, indeed, are these! The man who bears his burden and bravely plays the game, with little chance of success, and little hope of fame; the tortured soul who suffers from sickness by the year, and use no language rougher than moralists might hear; GOOD the men who smile when sizing, who chuckle when they freeze, who yodel when it's drizzling—good sports, indeed are these! Good sports, my friends, are scattered all over this country laid; though by misfortune battered, till they can scarcely stand, and though they stagger faintly, each captain of his soul, still struggles onward gamely, toward his chosen goal. Of high or low condition, on ship or cattle range, whatever his position, his grit will never change. He does no foolish whining, he wears no crane or shroud; his sun is at ways shining, regardless of the clouds; he utters no reviling of fate or circumstance; the good sport comes up smiling, whenever he has a chance.

WISCONSIN ORCHARDS MAKE A FINE SHOWING

The following interesting article on fruit growing in Wisconsin is sent out by the Wisconsin Advancement association, headquarters at Milwaukee:

Within the last two weeks two large fair western orchard companies have come into the state with a campaign to get Wisconsin money. Whether they will succeed depends largely on the amount of publicity there is given to the subject in the newspapers of the state. In the absence of publicity it will be easy for these people to secure a million, or almost any other amount of Wisconsin dollars. With publicity of the facts, they will have to stand upon the merits of their proposition. What are the facts? One of these concerns is from Bitter Root, Montana, and the other, claims that his proposition is "just as good as Bitter Root or Spokane." Let us see what the United States census says in the matter, and while about it we will include some of the other heavily advertised western sections.

It is well known that in no county in Wisconsin is fruit grown so carefully or expensively as in the west, but for the purpose of comparison we will take twenty-three Wisconsin counties where some pretense at careful orcharding is made and compare with these western counties. The values per bushel are as given for the states.

Twenty-three Wisconsin Counties	Bushels	Value
Wisconsin	1,028,383	$1,140,046
Missoula, Co.	94,061	$1,205 1.00
Ravalli Co.	355,789	300,364 1.00
Spokane Co.	418,556	209,817 1.09
Yakima Co.	356,537	321,546 1.09
Hood River Co., Ore.	195,592	122,423 .81
Marion Co., Ore.	174,454	153,183 .81
Clackamas Co., Ore.	140,076	144,329 .81

It is up to the Wisconsin man with the dollars the other fellows want to take a pencil and paper and figure what the value of the above crop per tree is at the prices stated, and he should take into consideration that fact that the price received for the far western apples is getting lower every year, while in Wisconsin a higher price depends only upon the production of a cleaner apple which can easily be done. But even on the above showing the value, per tree in Wisconsin is from eleven to fifty-two cents, more than in the heavily advertised western counties—and they are the best sections in the west for apples.

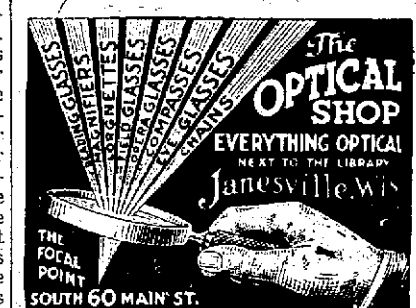

SEE IF YOUR CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If Cross, Feverish, Bilious Give Delicous "Syrup of Figs" to Cleanse Its Little Bowels.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are clogged up with purifying waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When your child is listless, drooping, pale, doesn't sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a well happy and smiling child again shortly. With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children, being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it cannot be harmful, besides they dearly love its delicious taste. Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator needed. A little given to-day will save a sick child tomorrow. Full directions for children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the package. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is the delicious, tasteful, genuine old reliable. western orchards of bearing age, when he can plant and bring an acre to bearing age in Wisconsin for $150.00? It is up to him to decide.

Anyone who properly plants and cares for a Wisconsin orchard will make 100 per cent more than he could in the far west on a good market, and make at least some money when the western man is losing in a poor year. But, again, it is up to him where he will put his money.

THROBBING HEADACHE? IT'S YOUR LIVER, YOU'RE BILIOUS! YOU NEED "CASCARETS".

Sick headaches! Always trace them to lazy liver delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or a sick stomach. Biliousness, constipated matter, gases and bile generated in the bowels, instead of being carried out of the system, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull sickening headache. Cascarets remove the cause by stimulating the liver, making the bile and constipation poison move on and out of the bowels. The effect is almost instantaneous. Ladies whose sensitive organisms are especially prone to sick headaches, need not suffer, for they can be quickly cured by Cascarets. One taken tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel bright and cheerful for months. Children need Cascarets, too—they love them because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Country folk have without doubt often longed to send to us their gowns, suits, overcoats, draperies, etc., for dry cleaning and dyeing. Parcel Post opens the way for this to be done quickly and at slight expense. Faultless dry cleaning is the greatest clothes savor on earth. Send us a trial order—say a soiled gown you want restored to its original beauty—we can do it perfectly at small cost. Return postage paid. A postal will bring you one of our price lists.

Cracked and Swollen. Could Not Sleep. For 2 Years Nobody Could Cure His Eczema. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

905 Lowell Place, Chicago, Ill.—"The trouble began in my hands burning and itching and I rubbed and scratched them all one day I saw little red sores coming out. My hands were disfigured and swollen, and troubled me so that I could not sleep. They were cracked and when the small sores broke a white matter would come out. I could not do any hard work; if I did the sores would come out worse."

"For two years nobody could cure my eczema, until one day I thought I would try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used warm water with the Cuticura Soap and after that I put the Cuticura Ointment on my hands twice a day for about five or six months when I was completely cured." (Signed) Sam Morris, Nov. 28, 1911.

Not only is Cuticura Soap and Ointment most valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dandruff, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c) and a box of Cuticura Ointment (50c) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample sent mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Oh yes, the instalment plan is great if you have enough money.

MOLLY McDONALD

A TALE OF THE FRONTIER

By RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "My Lady of the South," etc., etc.

Illustrations by J. L. Barnes

"Sure they weren't buffalo?"

"They were ponies all right, and herded."

The two men spurred back across the hills, and made report to Elliott. There was no hesitancy in that officer. The leading squadron was instantly swung into formation as skirmishers, and sent forward. From river-bank to crest of bluff they plowed through the drifts, overcoats strapped behind and carbines slung forward in readiness for action, but as they climbed to that topmost ridge, eager, expectant, it was only to gaze down upon a deserted camp, trampled snow, and blackened embers of numerous fires. Hamlin was the first to scramble down the steep bluff, dismount, and drag his trembling horse sliding after. Behind plunged Corbin and Elliott, anxious to read the signs, to open the pages of this wilderness book. A glance here and there, a testing of the blackened embers, a few steps along the broad trail, and these plainsmen knew the story. The Major straightened up, his hand on his horse's neck, his eyes sweeping those barren plains to the southward, and then turned to where his troopers were swarming down the bluff.

"Corbin," he said sharply, "ride back to General Custer at top speed. Tell him we have discovered a Cheyenne camp here at the mouth of Buffalo Creek of not less than a hundred and fifty warriors, deserted, and not to exceed twenty-four horses. Their trail leads south toward the Washita. Report that we shall cross the river in pursuit at once, and keep on cautiously until dark. Take a man with you; no, not Sergeant Hamlin, I shall need him here."

The scout was off like a shot, riding straight down the valley, a trooper pounding along behind him. Major Elliott ran his eyes over the little bunch of cavalrymen.

"Captain Sparring, send two of your men to test the depth of water there where those Indians crossed. As soon as ascertained we will ford the river."

CHAPTER XXXV.

Ready to Attack.

There was a ford but it was rocky and dangerous, and so narrow that horse after horse slipped aside into the swift current, bearing his rider with him into the icy water. Comrades hauled the unfortunate ones forth, and fires were hastily built under shelter of the south bank. Those who reached the landing dry shared their extra clothing with those water-soaked, and hot coffee was hastily served to all alike. Fager as the men were to push forward, more than an hour was lost in passage, for the stream was bank full, the current rapid and littered with quantities of floating ice. Some of these ice cakes startled the struggling horses and inflicted painful wounds, and it was only by a free use of ropes and lariats that the entire command finally succeeded in attaining the southern shore. Shivering with the cold, the troopers again found their saddles and pressed grimly forward on the trail. Hamlin, with five others, led the way along a beaten track which had been trampled by the passing herd of Indian ponies and plainly marked by the trailing poles of numerous wicki-ups.

This led straight away into the south across the valley of the Canadian, on to the plains beyond. The snow here was a foot deep on a level, and in places the going was heavy. As they advanced, the weather moderated somewhat, and the upper crust became soft. Before them stretched the dreary level of the plains, broken by occasional ravines and little isolated patches of trees. No sign of Indians was seen other than the deserted trail, and confident that the band had had fully twenty-four hours' start their pursuers advanced as rapidly as the ground would permit. The very clearness of the trail was evidence that the Indians had no conception that they were being followed. Confident of safety in their winter retreat, they were making no effort to protect their rear, never dreaming there were soldiers within hundreds of miles. Whatever report Dupont had made, it had awakened no alarm. Why should it? So far as he knew there were but two men pursuing him into the wilderness, and both of these he believed lying dead in the snow.

Steadily, mile after mile, they rode, and it was after dark when the little column was finally halted beside a stream, where they could safely hide themselves in a patch of timber. Tiny fires were built under protection of the steep banks of the creek, and the men made coffee, and fed their hungry horses. The silence was profound. It was a dark night, although the surrounding snow plains yielded a spectral light. Major Elliott, drinking coffee and munching hardtack with the troop captain, sent for Sergeant Hamlin. The latter advanced within the glow of the fire, and saluted.

"We have been gaining on those fellows, Sergeant," the Major began, "and must be drawing close to the Washita."

"We are travelling faster than they did, sir," was the reply, "because they had to break trail, and there were some women and children with them. I have no knowledge of this region, but the creek empties into the Washita without doubt."

"That would be my judgment, Sparring, and I were just talking it over. I shall wait here until Custer comes up; my force is too small to attack openly, and my orders are not to bring on an engagement. Custer has some Osage scouts with him who will know this country."

"But, Major," ventured Hamlin, "if the General follows our trail it will be hours yet before he can reach here, and then his men will be completely exhausted."

"He will not follow our trail. He has Corbin and 'California Joe' with him. They are plainsmen who know their business. He'll cross the Canadian, and strike out across the plains to intercept us. In that way he will have no farther to travel than we have had. In my judgment we shall not wait here long alone. Have you eaten?"

"No, sir; I have been stationing the guard."

"Then sit down here and share what little we have. We can wait for a while tonight."

It was after nine o'clock when the sentries challenged the advance of Custer's column, as it stole silently out of the gloom. Ten minutes later the men were hovering about the fires, absorbing such small comforts as were possible, while the General and Major Elliott discussed the situation and planned to push forward. An hour later the fires were extinguished, the horses quickly saddled, and noiselessly the "tired cavalrymen" moved out once more and took up the trail. The moon had risen, lighting up the desert, and the Osage guides, together with the two scouts, led the way. At Custer's request Hamlin rode beside him in the lead of the troopers. A word was spoken above a whisper, and strict orders were passed down the line prohibiting the lighting of a match or the smoking of a pipe. Canteens were muffled and swords thrust securely under saddle flaps. Like a body of specters they moved silently across the snow in the moonlight, cavalry capes drawn over their heads, the only sound the crunching of horses' hoofs breaking through the crust.

The trail was as distinct as a road, and the guides pushed ahead as rapidly as by daylight, yet with ever increasing caution. Suddenly one of the Osages signalled for a halt, averring that he smelled fire. The scouts dismounted and crept forward, discovering a small campfire, deserted but still smouldering, in a strip of timber. Careful examination made it certain that this fire must have been kindled by Indian boys, herding ponies during the day, and probably meant that the village was close at hand. The Osage guides and the two white scouts again picked up the trail, the cavalry advancing slowly some distance behind. Custer, accompanied by Hamlin, rode a yard to the rear and joined the scouts, who were cautiously feeling their way up a slight declivity.

The Osage in advance crept through the snow to the crest of the ridge and looked carefully down into the valley below. Instantly his hand went up in a gesture of caution and he hurriedly made his cautious way back to where Custer sat his horse waiting.

"What is it? What did you see?" "Ecap Injuns down there!"

The General swung down from his saddle, motioned the Sergeant to follow, and the two men crept to the crest and looked over. The dim moonlight was confusing, while the shadow of timber rendered everything indistinct. Yet they were able to make out a herd of ponies, distinguished the distant bark of a dog and the tinkle of a bell. Without question this was the Indians' winter camp, and they had reached it undiscovered. Custer glanced at his watch—the hour was past midnight. He pressed Hamlin's sleeve, his lips close to the Sergeant's ear.

"Creep back and bring my officers up here," he whispered. "Have them take off their sabres."

As they crept, one after the other, to where he lay in the snow, the General, whose eyes had become accustomed to the moon-gleam, pointed out the location of the village and such natural surroundings as could be vaguely distinguished. The situation thus outlined in their minds, they drew silently back from the crest, leaving there a single Osage guide on guard, and returned to the waiting regiment, standing to horse less than a mile distant. Custer's orders for immediate attack came swiftly, and Hamlin, acting as his orderly, bore them to the several commands. The entire force was slightly in excess of eight hundred men, and there was every probability that the Indians outnumbered them five to one. Scouts had reported to Sheridan that this camp of Black Kettle was the winter rendezvous not only of the Cheyennes, but also of bands of fighting Apaches, Kiowas, Comanches, and even some Apaches, the most daring and desperate warriors of the plains. Yet this was no time to hesitate, to debate; it was a moment for decisive action. The blow must be struck at once, before daylight, with all the power of surprise. The little body of cavalrymen was divided into four detachments. Two of these were at once marched to the left, circling the village silently in the darkness, and taking up a position at the farther extremity. A third detachment moved to the right and found their way down into the valley, where they lay concealed in a strip of timber. Custer, with the fourth detachment under his own command, remained in position on the trail. The sleeping village was thus completely surrounded, and the orders were for those in command of the different forces to approach as closely as possible without running risk of discovery, and then to remain absolutely quiet until daylight. Not a match was to be lighted nor a shot fired until the charge was sounded by the trumpeter who remained with Custer. Then all were to spur forward as one man.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The Battle With the Indians.

Corbin had gone with the detachment circling to the left, and "California Joe" was with the other in the valley, but Hamlin remained with the chief. About them was profound silence, the men standing beside their horses. There was nothing to do but wait, every nerve at high tension. The wintry air grew colder, but the troopers were not allowed to make the slightest noise, not even to swing their arms or stamp their feet. After the last detachment swept silently into the night, there still remained four hours of daylight. No one knew what had occurred; the various troops had melted away into the dark and disappeared. No word, no sound had come back. They could only wait in faith on their comrades. The men were dismounted, each holding his own horse in instant readiness for action. Not a few, wearied with the day's work, while still clinging to their bridles, wrapped the capes of their overcoats over their heads and threw themselves down in the snow, and fell asleep.

Golf Ball Poachers.

Many complaints have been received by the police lately of the loss of golf balls from the Epping Forest links, while actually in play. It is alleged that gangs of youths gather at places on the links where the players cannot see the balls fall, and that the balls disappear sometimes even when they fall on the fairway. As the result of a watch kept by the police in trees and behind hedges, several prosecutions have taken place recently.—London Mail.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

JAMES G. BLAINE.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

On this date, in the year 1830, James G. Blaine, statesman, was born near Brownsville, Pennsylvania, at a youthful age. He was the second son of his parents, who would have felt better about it if he had been a daughter, but with a shock of hands with him cordially and allowed him to do all the chores. James had a very positive, vanguardian steel character, and if he had been born in the female sex, we would have had woman suffrage long ago.

In order to fit himself for the joys and trials of matrimony, James yielded the rod over a country school and later signed out as a printer's "devil" two occupations which brought out the qualities most needed in a husband. Soon after his marriage he was stung with deadly accuracy by the political bee, which attacked him every time there was an election and deprived him of his peace of mind. This insect drove him into the Maine legislature, then into the national house of representatives and finally into the United States senate, and it narrowly escaped landing him in the presidency, to wrestle with the blood-sucking postulated candidate and the fish-mouthed infant industry.

In 1834 Mr. Blaine came within 1,000 votes of being elected president, a result, which put a deep mark on his mind in several thousand republican postmasters, who were removed from office with the aid of a scoop shovel. Some time before this Blaine had taken occasion to refer to Roscoe Conkling as a turkey gobbler, and although Mr. Conkling denied that he had any relatives in that direction a great many people believed it. Hence, when the election was held Conkling sulked in his tent and organized one of the most expensive stunts in American politics, as Blaine told New York by an eye-lash.

James G. Blaine was a popular idol with every attribute of greatness except luck. Great-hearted, great-brained, he was the beau ideal of the scholar, the orator and the statesman in politics. Since Clay there have been few worthy to wear his mantle, none his superior in intellect or poise or patriotic instinct. He died in Washington in January, 1893, rich in the affection and undiminished confidence of millions of his countrymen.

When Burton Holmes recently gave his celebrated travelogue on "Panama" at Orchestra Hall, Chicago, he was seriously interrupted by continual coughing of the audience. Many a good sermon, lecture or concert, is spoiled in the same way. No one annoys willingly, and if people with coughs, colds, hoarseness and tickling in throat would use Epley's Honey & Tar Compound, they could quickly cure their coughs and colds and avoid this annoyance. It is a splendid household medicine and contains no opiates. Badger Drug Co.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Severe Case of a Philadelphia Woman—Her Symptoms.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I had a severe case of nervous prostration, with palpitation of the heart, constipation, headaches, dizziness, noise in my ears, timid, nervous, restless feelings and sleeplessness."

"I read in the paper where a young woman had been cured of the same troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I threw away the medicine the doctor left me and began taking the Compound. Before I had taken half a bottle I was able to sit up and in a short time I was able to do all my work. Your medicine has proved itself able to do all you say it will and I have recommended it in every household I have visited."—Mrs. MARY JOHNSTON, 210 Siegel Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Another Bad Case. Ephrata, Pa.—"About a year ago I was down with nervous prostration. I was pale and weak and would have hysterical spells, sick headaches and a bad pain under my shoulder-blade. I was under the care of different doctors but did not improve. I was so weak I could hardly stand long enough to do my dishes."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and happy and I have begun to gain in weight and my face looks healthy now."—Mrs. J. W. HORNBERGER, R. No. 3, Ephrata, Pa.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 1, 1873
—Yesterday in company with his honor the Mayor, the members of the Common Council and several invited guests had the pleasure of seeing the best system of schools in Wisconsin. The honorable body inspected twenty-three different departments, presided over by twenty-seven teachers, in five different school buildings and finished in the space of five hours. We mention this only to show that the examination by the Mayor and Council was to be general in nature rather than minute or critical, and we should say that the general appearance of our public schools in all that the patrons of the schools should desire and the parents to expect. If cleanliness is godliness, and order Heaven's first gift.

Two shooting matches have been arranged to come off at the driving park, in this city, one within thirty days, for fifty dollars each, aside. The contestants are each to shoot at fifty birds, single rises from plunge traps, the contest to be governed by the rules of the Prairie Sporting Club.

Hon. C. G. Williams, our congressman-elect, will start for Washington some time next week. He goes via New York city, but will reach the capital in season to take his seat as a member of the forthcoming Congress.

Amazing. The scientists tell us, as the result of study of a paleolithic skull, that primitive man was able to think before he was able to speak. How times have changed.—New York Tribune.

OLIVE OIL.

Under the Pure Food Law all oil made from olives is pure olive oil, yet there is as much difference in olive oil as there is in butter.

Cheap olive oil is made from olives that through cause of decay, insects or storms fall to the ground. Sound, healthy olives stay on the trees until ripe, like our apples. They are then gathered, the oil pressed without heat. This is virgin olive oil. The second pressing is obtained with steam and hot water, which is known as fine table oil. The rich flavor and medicinal properties are found only in the virgin oil which is of a greenish-yellow color. It is very nutritious. Used in nervous diseases is a mild laxative; has a great reputation as a remedy for stones in the bladder, and is a skin food and complexion beautifier through its action on the liver. The supply of this virgin oil is always limited. It is quickly bought up for medicinal purposes and found only in drug stores.

Mr. Francis, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, personally tests our olive oil. You are therefore positive of obtaining the true virgin oil imported direct from Southern France. We sell it at 40c one-half pint, 75c a full pint bottle. Get it at our store. The Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee & River streets. The Drug Store that makes a specialty of Drugs.
